RED PEPPER AND REVOLVER

Used in the Onslaught—The Political Outlook as Sized Up By Leaders on Both Sides — Grosvenor's Predictions—Capital Notes.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, November 4.—Charles A. Taylor, alias Lowrey, one of the most desperate cracksmen in the country, was rescued by two pals in true wild west style almost in the heart of this city Saturday afternoon while being returned to the penitentiary in charge of Guard George M. Bowman from Canton, where he had been taken to testify in the case of Michael McGovern, who was on trial for robbery.

The deed was consummated on board the Cleveland, Akron & Columbus railroad. Two strangers boarded the train at Westerville, a few miles north of Columbus, and entered the smoking car, in which Bowman and his prisoner were seated. When within a half mile of the station, one of the strangers approached Bowman from behind and dashed red pepper in his face, filling his eyes, mouth and nose. Simultaneously his pal flashed a revolver on the passengers and pulled the bell rope. Bowman drew his revolver, but when he managed to open his eyes his gaze met the gleaming barrels of a weapon in the hands of a desperado.

Taylor was hustled through the coach to the rear by his rescuers. Bowman followed and fired at the fugitives, but as he was suffering great pain and was almost blinded he gave up the chase. The trio crossed several vacant lots to the road, where they held up a couple driving to the city in a buggy. They robbed the occupants of $25 and then jumped into the vehicle and started north at a furious gait. Descriptions of the men have been sent out and a reward of $100 has been offered by the penitentiary officials for the capture of Taylor.

Taylor was a member of "Blinky" Morgan's gang. He got 10 years for dynamiting the Chardon bank several months ago. He is regarded as one of the most dangerous criminals in the country. His wife, Nell Lowrey, was the wife of "Blinky" Morgan. No clue has been obtained regarding the whereabouts of the escaped prisoner and his pals.

Chairman Dick's ante-election statement was announced this morning. Chairman Dick says if there is a full vote out Nash's plurality will be larger than two years ago and the legislature will be safely Republican even if a slump occurs in the vote. An appeal is made to the voters to exercise their right as American citizens on election day.

Congressman Grosvenor and Col. A. W. Taylor, chairman of the literary bureau at Democratic headquarters, have prognosticated the result of next Tuesday's election, each claiming victory for their respective parties. Grosvenor predicts that Governor Nash and the entire state ticket will be elected by comfortable pluralities and that the legislature will be Republican by at least seven on joint ballot, with 21 members in doubt, of which, however, the Republicans expect to secure a majority. He states Gov. Nash's plurality may reach 75,000, although he would not be greatly surprised if it fell below 25,000.

General Grosvenor has been a close student of the political affairs of Ohio for many years, and his election prognostications have been noted for their accuracy. Colonel Taylor has been identified with Democratic politics in this state for a quarter of a century or more, and is known as the champion juggler of figures. He predicts overwhelming Democratic victories each year. He is willing to concede that Columbiana county will give George K. Nash a plurality of 3,000, but only allows him a little less than 200 in Stark. He has the hardihood to assert, however, that Mahoning, one of the safe Republican counties of the state, will give Kilbourne 100 more votes than Nash. The action of the voters of Mahoning in the past is in itself sufficient refutation of this claim.

Gov. Nash, in discussing the political situation, said he saw nothing unfavorable to the Republicans. The only complaint he had to make was that the halls where meetings have been held were not large enough to accommodate the crowds. The bureaus of the two dominant parties will close today. Both committees crowded a vast deal of work into the brief period allotted for the campaign, but by reason of their splendid organization the Republicans were in a position to accomplish infinitely more than their Democratic brethren. The Republican committee distributed 500,000 documents, 500,000 buttons, 300,000 pictures of Nash, Foraker and McKinley, in equal number and sent out 500,000 personally addressed letters. The Democratic committee sent out 50,000 buttons, 75,000 personally directed letters and 100,000 documents.

Most of the Columbiana county people serving the state and attending colleges here, have left for their homes to remain until after the election. There has been a general exodus from the city. Most of the student vote will be cast for the Republican ticket. In these, the closing hours of the campaign, the Democratic press has stooped to most despicable methods to advance the interests of their candidates. Mendacious attacks are being made unreservedly upon the Republicans, even to the extent of vilification of character—nothing is held sacred by these defamers. Intelligent voters are disgusted with such mud-slinging and they will, unless all signs fail, rebuke such methods at the polls Tuesday.

The supreme court by its decision in the case of John I. Ward, of Toledo, knocked out the teachers' and firemen's pension fund act. Ward is a teacher and resisted a reduction of 1 per cent from his salary to support the pension fund. The law was held to be unconstitutional on the ground that it was special legislation on a general subject.

The October fatalities were unusually numerous. The report of State Railroad Commissioner Morris as made yesterday shows that 40 persons lost their lives on the rails during the month. None of these were passengers. Twenty-seven were trespassers, 12 employees and one a traveler on the highway who was killed at a crossing.

The supreme court has adjourned for one week.

GEORGE T. BLAKE.

HELD FOR COURT

EDWARD DINERSTEIN'S HEARING BEFORE THE MAYOR.

The Youth Will Be Taken to Lisbon to Answer to the Grand Jury.

Mayor Davidson this morning bound Edward Dinerstein, charged with an assault with criminal intent on four-year-old Hilda Watters, over to common pleas court, in the sum of $200. The evidence, which was submitted at the trial, was of such a nature that the mayor was convinced of the young man's guilt and he acted accordingly.

Dinerstein at first pleaded guilty. On being questioned by the mayor he changed his plea.

The first witness called was the little girl herself. She is an unusually bright child and told a straightforward story. She said that Dinerstein had hurt her. She also stated that he promised her apples and peaches if she would not tell what had happened. She promptly recognized him in the court.

Margaret Watters, a sister of Hilda, told what the child had told her. After hearing it she said she went to Dinerstein's home and confronted the young man. She said he did not deny that he had taken Hilda to the glass house, but claimed he was drunk. Dr. Rose Hathway, who examined the child after the assault, was the last witness called. She stated that the little girl had not been injured, but said she was positive Dinerstein had attacked her.

Dinerstein will be taken to Lisbon tomorrow or Wednesday. During the trial he sat with his head hanging down and never once offered to deny any of the statements made by the witnesses. Albert Dinerstein, brother of the accused, told the mayor that Eddie's mind is weak and that he is not responsible for his crime. This is not believed by the mayor.

The mother of the Watters child is dead. The father, James Watters, is employed at the Dresden pottery and is a respected citizen.

A Dreary Morning—It rained and snowed for some time this morning. It was the first taste East Liverpool has had this season of old fashioned November weather.

SENATOR JOSEPH BENSON FORAKER.

The Ohio state legislature which is elected tomorrow will be called upon either to re-elect General Foraker or to choose his successor in the United States senate. If it is Republican, he will be re-elected without opposition.

PETITION MADE TO COUNCIL

Pleasant and Lisbon Street Residents Want a Street Railway Line.

MORE THAN 200 SIGNERS

Residents of the Thoroughfares Over Which the Line Is to Pass Are Determined to Have the Franchise Lived Up to By the Company.

At the next meeting of council a petition will be presented containing the names of over 200 property owners of Lisbon and Pleasant streets. The petitioners will ask that the East Liverpool Street Railway company be required at once to proceed with the Lisbon street extension of its lines according to the franchise.

Several signers of the petition have been interviewed with reference to the matter and state that they propose to keep up the agitation until the work is started. One resident said:

"According to the agreement the extension should have been made long ago, but it seems that the company has been able this far to invent one excuse after another to avoid starting the work until we have determined to require the street railway people to build the line or ascertain whether they are bigger than the city of East Liverpool."

"It cannot be said that the patronage will not justify the work, at least 500 people would use the line daily. It has been said that the reason for the delay was because of a lack of power to run the rolling stock necessary for this branch, but we insist that if the patronage is such that the line would pay, and of this we have no doubt, it would certainly justify the company in increasing its facilities."

BROKE INTO JAIL

Pennsylvania Man Succeeded Into Getting Locked Into the County Prison.

Lisbon, November 4.—(Special)—Michael Crow, of Meadville, Pa., came to Lisbon last week. By Saturday evening, it is said, he was fearfully drunk. About midnight he went up to the jail and tried to get in. For an hour he wandered around, trying to pull iron bars off the windows.

Deputy Sheriff Bick found him and accommodated him with a place to sleep in a cell. This is the first case on record here of a man trying to break into jail.

SEBRINC TEAM SNOWED UNDER

Mahoning County Team Not in the Game at Any Stage.

A TOTAL OF 21 POINTS

Roller Up By the Y. M. C. A.'s While the Visitors Were Unable to Cross
the Goal Line—Many Brilliant Runs a Feature.

The plucky Sebring football team, who triumphed over the heavy Canton team a week ago, wandered out of their class when they tackled the Y. M. C. A. team Saturday, and were buried under the smothering score of 21 to 0. The knowledge that they put up a game fight against hopeless odds is all Sebring had to console her in the hour of defeat, for at no time in Saturday's contest did she appear as dangerous as the large crowd of spectators had looked for.

Only once were the visitors able to withstand the onslaughts of the Y. M. C. A. line backers, and secured the ball on the home team's 10 yard line. This was the only time that the goal of the home team was in any danger, but the visitors were promptly held for downs and the ball was immediately carried out of danger.

Outclassed in weight and science, Sebring made up for the qualities she lacked by a dogged and determined fight, which, if not successful, was not lost upon the spectators, and there were many cheers for the plucky Mahoning county boys.

The work of the home team was superb, especially on defense, the guards and tackles invariably breaking through and downing the opposing runners before they could get a start.

The playing was done almost exclusively in the visitors' territory, and they had possession of the ball but few times during the game. The home team has now scored 42 points against visiting teams without their goal line being crossed, and the game with Mt. Union next Saturday will settle the championship of Eastern Ohio. The Mt. Union boys have met and defeated almost every team in the eastern part of the state, and if our team should defeat them they will be the undisputed champions.

At the beginning of the game Saturday Captain Smith of the Sebring team won the toss, and chose to defend the east goal, giving the home team the kickoff.

Baker kicked off to Eddy who returned the ball 5 yards. Eddy hit the center of the line and did not gain. Bumgartner was tackled back of the line for a loss of 5 yards, and on the next play A. Stevenson broke through and downed Leo for a loss of 5 yards more.

It was Liverpool's ball on Sebring's 20 yard line. Stoffel hit right tackle for 7 yards, and Booth got two more through the same place. Moore circled right end for 7 yards and on the next play went over for the first touchdown, just three and one-half minutes after play had started. Eddy kicked off to Booth who returned the ball 20 yards before he was downed. Stephens went through right tackle for 10 yards and Booth made 7 yards around left end.

Moore shot through right tackle for 5 yards, and Baker gained two yards through the same place. On the next play Bumgartner tackled Little for no gain. Booth plunged through right tackle to Sebring's three yard line, and Stoffel was shoved over for the second touchdown, within 5 minutes after the game had started. Stoffel missed a difficult goal. Score 10 to 0.

Lee kicked off to Humble who carried the ball back 10 yards before he was stopped. Stephens hit right tackle for six yards, Stoffel gained two more through the same place and Moore added two more around right end. Stoffel gained five yards through right guard, Little one yard around right end and on the next play fumbled, but Booth fell on the ball.

Moore circled right end for 15 yards on a trick play, and Little added 5 more around the opposite end. Baker fumbled and Eddy secured the ball. Eddy made three yards around right end, Bumgartner was tackled by McLane for a loss. Lee fumbled and A. Stevenson fell on the ball. Holt took Humble's place at right tackle.

Stephens went through right guard for three yards. Baker made 10 yards around right end and Little was tackled for a loss. Baker failed to gain around right end, could only make two yards around left end and the ball went to the visitors on downs. Eddy got through right tackle for five yards, Lee right end for two and Bumgartner failed to gain at the same place. A. Stevenson tackled Eddy for a loss of 7 yards, and the ball went to the home team on downs.

Little circled left end for 30 yards carrying the ball to the visitors' three yard line. On the next play Little fumbled and Craig fell on the ball. Eddy made three yards through right tackle and Lee got two more around right end.

COURT CALENDAR

Richardson-Noragon Suit Appealed.
An East Liverpool
Adoption.

Lisbon, November 4.—(Special)—The case of Alva Richardson, of Lisbon, against S. D. Noragon has been appealed from Squire J. M. Dickinson's court to common pleas court by the defendant. Richardson sued for $40.22, alleging that Noragon wrongfully accepted a bond and got judgment.

The will of Joseph Cox, Sr., late of Salem, has been admitted to probate. All the testator's property is left to his son, Joseph H. Cox, who is made executor.

John C. Warren and wife, of East Liverpool, have adopted Edgar L. Mounsey, three years old, son of Laura E. Mounsey and Clarence Harley, and have changed his name to John Edgar Warren. The proceedings have been sanctioned by the probate court.

Porter Kays and Gertrude Conkle, East Liverpool, have been licensed to marry.

BETHANY TOMORROW

The College Team Will Do Battle
With the Y. M. C. A.
Footballists.

The Bethany college foot ball team will invade the city tomorrow and do battle with the Y. M. C. A. team at West End park in the afternoon.

Bethany has always had a strong team and has never met defeat at the hands of a local aggregation, but this year a little surprise party awaits them, as the Y. M. C. A.'s say they have something up their sleeves which the collegians know nothing about.

OFFICER SPENCE MAKES BIG HAUL

East End "Copper" Pounced Down on Four Disorderly Young Men.

ALL WERE GIVEN A RIDE

Poker Players Surprised And Taken Into Custody—Usual Grist at Police Court as the Result of Saturday And Sunday Carousals.

Officer John Spence, who is the preserver of peace in the East End, made quite a large sized haul yesterday afternoon, when he swooped down on four young men who were raising a disturbance, and took them to jail in the patrol.

The prisoners, who were registered as Joseph Cannon, Patrick Calhoun, Joseph McKenzie and John W. Scott, were charged with intoxication and disorderly conduct. It cost them $6.00 each to square accounts with the mayor.

Four poker players were caught yesterday afternoon while indulging in an open-air game on Thompson hill. Officer Dawson surprised the quartet, but as the young men put up security for their appearance at trial they were not locked up. They gave the names of Charles Mason, John Boyer, William Jones, and Thomas Lloyd. They will call on the mayor this evening.

Thomas Morris was arrested Saturday night by Officer Davidson. He is charged with drunkenness and insulting women. He will also appear before his honor this evening.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

Interesting Program Arranged for a Coming Meeting.

Arrangements have been made by a committee appointed by the local council Knights of Columbus for a smoker to be held in the rooms of the organization next Wednesday evening.

An elaborate program has been arranged and the 16 members composing the entertainment include some of the best talent in the city.

The lodge of Knights of Columbus here is one of the strongest in the district and is acknowledged to be far up in the degree work. Still there are a large number of eligible men who have not yet affiliated and the object of the smoker this week will be to interest this element. The affair will doubtless be well attended. The program follows:

Address of welcome, James Grafton; song, James Wheatley; piano duet, John McNeil and James Kinney; K. of C. quartet, Hugh Hamill, Albert Taylor, Ted Fulton, Robert Wheatley; review of council, Jacob Weisend; sleight of hand, Joseph Harrington; song, Hugh Hamill; address, John McGarry; intermission; address, "Fraternity," Rev. Thomas Mahan; quartet, Bradley brothers; selection, Mandolin club; song Robert Wheatley; address, "Why I Should Be a Knight of Columbus?" Thomas Duffy; K. of C. quartet; Mandolin club; quartet, Bradley brothers.

A BIG MEETING

Held By Republicans in the Court House at Lisbon.

Lisbon, November 4.—(Special)—Congressman Charles B. Landis, of Indiana, on Saturday night delivered a fine address at a big Republican meeting at the court house. Hon. I. B. Cameron called the meeting to order and Hon. R. W. Taylor acted as chairman.

Every seat in the common pleas court room was occupied and many stood up.

Mr. Landis' address made a deep impression and was attentively listened to.

Defeated at New Cumberland.

The Diamond Indians went to New Cumberland on Saturday and were defeated by the eleven of that town by a score of 5 to 0. The New Cumberland boys were too heavy for the local team, averaging nearly 20 pounds more than the Liverpool players. In addition to this they were given a very bad deal at the hands of the umpire.

The handsomest and best local newspaper in Columbiana county is the East Liverpool News Review.

RED PEPPER AND REVOLVER

Used in the Onslaught—The Political Outlook as Sized Up By Leaders on Both Sides—Grosvenor's Predictions—Capital Notes.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, November 4.—Charles A. Taylor, alias Lowrey, one of the most desperate crackmen in the country, was rescued by two pals in true wild west style almost in the heart of this city Saturday afternoon while being returned to the penitentiary in charge of Guard George M. Bowman from Canton, where he had been taken to testify in the case of Michael McGovern, who was on trial for robbery.

The deed was consummated on board the Cleveland, Akron & Columbus railroad. Two strangers boarded the train at Westerville, a few miles north of Columbus, and entered the smoking car, in which Bowman and his prisoner were seated. When within a half mile of the station, one of the strangers approached Bowman from behind and dashed red pepper in his face, filling his eyes, mouth and nose. Simultaneously his pal flashed a revolver on the passengers and pulled the bell rope. Bowman drew his revolver, but when he managed to open his eyes his gaze met the gleaming barrels of a weapon in the hands of a desperado.

Taylor was hustled through the coach to the rear by his rescuers. Bowman followed and fired at the fugitives, but as he was suffering great pain and was almost blinded he gave up the chase. The trio crossed several vacant lots to the road, where they held up a couple driving to the city in a buggy. They robbed the occupants of $25 and then jumped into the vehicle and started north at a furious gallop. Descriptions of the men have been sent out and a reward of $100 has been offered by the penitentiary officials for the capture of Taylor.

Taylor was a member of "Blinky" Morgan's gang. He got 10 years for dynamiting the Chardon bank several months ago. He is regarded as one of the most dangerous criminals in the country. His wife, Nell Lowrey, was the wife of "Blinky" Morgan. No clue has been obtained regarding the whereabouts of the escaped prisoner and his pals.

Chairman Dick's ante-election statement was announced this morning. Chairman Dick says if there is a full vote out Nash's plurality will be larger than two years ago and the legislature will be safely Republican even if a slump occurs in the vote. An appeal is made to the voters to exercise their right as American citizens on election day.

Congressman Grosvenor and Col. A. W. Taylor, chairman of the literary bureau at Democratic headquarters, have prognosticated the result of next Tuesday's election, each claiming victory for their respective parties. Grosvenor predicts that Governor Nash and the entire state ticket will be elected by comfortable pluralities and that the legislature will be Republican by at least seven on joint ballot, with 21 members in doubt, of which, however, the Republicans expect to secure a majority. He states Gov. Nash's plurality may reach 75,000, although he would not be greatly surprised if it fell below 25,000.

General Grosvenor has been a close student of the political affairs of Ohio for many years, and his election prognostications have been noted for their accuracy. Colonel Taylor has been identified with Democratic politics in this state for a quarter of a century or more, and is known as the champion juggler of figures. He predicts overwhelming Democratic victories each year. He is willing to concede that Columbiana county will give George K. Nash a plurality of 3,000, but only allows him a little less than 200 in Stark. He has the hardihood to assert, however, that Mahoning, one of the safe Republican counties of the state, will give Kilbourne 100 more votes than Nash. The action of the voters of Mahoning in the past is in itself sufficient refutation of this claim.

Gov. Nash, in discussing the political situation, said he saw nothing unfavorable to the Republicans. The only complaint he had to make was that the halls where meetings have been held were not large enough to accommodate the crowds. The bureau of the two dominant parties will close today. Both committees crowded a vast deal of work into the brief period allotted for the campaign, but by reason of their splendid organization the Republicans were in a position to accomplish infinitely more than their Democratic brethren. The Republican committee distributed 500,000 documents, 500,000 buttons, 300,000 pictures of Nash, Foraker and McKinley, in equal number and sent out 500,000 personally addressed letters. The Democratic committee sent out 50,000 buttons, 75,000 personally directed letters and 100,000 documents.

Most of the Columbiana county people serving the state and attending colleges here, have left for their homes to remain until after the election. There has been a general exodus from the city. Most of the student vote will be cast for the Republican ticket. In these, the closing hours of the campaign, the Democratic press has stooped to most despicable methods to advance the interests of their candidates. Mendacious attacks are being made unreservedly upon the Republicans, even to the extent of vilification of character—nothing is held sacred by these defamers. Intelligent voters are disgusted with such mud-slinging and they will, unless all signs fail, rebuke such methods at the polls Tuesday.

The supreme court by its decision in the case of John I. Ward, of Toledo, knocked out the teachers' and firemen's pension fund act. Ward is a teacher and resisted a reduction of 1 per cent from his salary to support the pension fund. The law was held to be unconstitutional on the ground that it was special legislation on a general subject.

The October fatalities were unusually numerous. The report of State Railroad Commissioner Morris as made yesterday shows that 40 persons lost their lives on the rails during the month. None of these were passengers. Twenty-seven were trespassers, 12 employees and one a traveler on the highway who was killed at a crossing.

The supreme court has adjourned for one week.

Pleasant and Lisbon Street Residents Want a Street Railway Line.

MORE THAN 200 SIGNERS A TOTAL OF 21 POINTS

Residents of the Thoroughfares Over Which the Line is to Pass Are Determined to Have the Franchise Lived Up to By the Company.

At the next meeting of council a petition will be presented containing the names of over 200 property owners of Lisbon and Pleasant streets.

The petitioners will ask that the East Liverpool Street Railway company be required at once to proceed with the Lisbon street extension of its lines according to the franchise.

Several signers of the petition have been interviewed with reference to the matter and state that they propose to keep up the agitation until the work is started. One resident said:

"According to the agreement the extension should have been made long ago, but it seems that the company has been able this far to invent one excuse after another to avoid starting the work until we have determined to require the street railway people to build the line or ascertain whether they are bigger than the city of East Liverpool."

"It cannot be said that the patronage will not justify the work, at least 500 people would use the line daily. It has been said that the reason for the delay was because of a lack of power to run the rolling stock necessary for this branch, but we insist that if the patronage is such that the line would pay, and of this we have no doubt, it would certainly justify the company in increasing its facilities."

Members of council who have been approached upon the subject say there is little doubt that the company can be induced to comply with the request.

Baker failed to gain around right end, could only make two yards around left end and the ball went to the visitors on downs. Eddy got through right tackle for five yards, Lee right end for two and Bumgartner failed to gain at the same place. A. Stevenson tackled Eddy for a loss of 7 yards, and the ball went to the home team on downs.

COURT CALENDAR

Richardson-Noragon Suit Appealed. An East Liverpool Adoption.

Lisbon, November 4.—(Special)—The case of Alva Richardson, of Lisbon, against S. D. Noragon has been appealed from Squire J. M. Dickinson's court to common pleas court by the defendant. Richardson sued for $40.22, alleging that Noragon wrongfully accepted a bond and got judgment.

The will of Joseph Cox, Sr., late of Salem, has been admitted to probate. All the testator's property is left to his son, Joseph H. Cox, who is made executor.

John C. Warren and wife, of East Liverpool, have adopted Edgar L. Mounsey, three years old, son of Laura E. Mounsey and Clarence Harley, and have changed his name to John Edgar Warren. The proceedings have been sanctioned by the probate court.

Porter Kays and Gertrude Conkle, East Liverpool, have been licensed to marry.

BETHANY TOMORROW

The College Team Will Do Battle With the Y. M. C. A. Footballists.

The Bethany college foot ball team will invade the city tomorrow and do battle with the Y. M. C. A. team at West End park in the afternoon.

Bethany has always had a strong team and has never met defeat at the hands of a local aggregation, but this year a little surprise party awaits them, as the Y. M. C. A.'s say they have something up their sleeves which the collegians know nothing about.

The home team will indulge in light practice this afternoon, and the same lineup that faced Sebring at the beginning of the game Saturday will probably be in their positions when play is called tomorrow.

OFFICER SPENCE MAKES BIG HAUL

East End "Copper" Pounced Down on Four Disorderly Young Men.

Poker Players Surprised And Taken Into Custody—Usual Grist at Police Court as the Result of Saturday And Sunday Carousals.

Officer John Spence, who is the preserver of peace in the East End, made quite a large sized haul yesterday afternoon, when he swooped down on four young men who were raising a disturbance, and took them to jail in the patrol.

The prisoners, who were registered as Joseph Cannon, Patrick Calhoun, Joseph McKenzie and John W. Scott, were charged with intoxication and disorderly conduct. It cost them $5.00 each to square accounts with the mayor.

Four poker players were caught yesterday afternoon while indulging in an open-air game on Thompson hill. Officer Dawson surprised the quartet, but as the young men put up security for their appearance at trial they were not locked up. They gave the names of Charles Mason, John Boyer, William Jones, and Thomas Lloyd. They will call on the mayor this evening.

Thomas Morris was arrested Saturday night by Officer Davidson. He is charged with drunkenness and insulting women. He will also appear before his honor this evening.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

Interesting Program Arranged for a Coming Meeting.

Arrangements have been made by a committee appointed by the local council Knights of Columbus for a smoker to be held in the rooms of the organization next Wednesday evening.

An elaborate program has been arranged and the 16 members composing the entertainment include some of the best talent in the city.

The lodge of Knights of Columbus here is one of the strongest in the district and is acknowledged to be far up in the degree work. Still there are a large number of eligible men who have not yet affiliated and the object of the smoker this week will be to interest this element. The affair will doubtless be well attended. The program follows:

Address of welcome, James Grafton; song, James Wheatley; piano duet, John McNicol and James Kinney; K. of C. quartet, Hugh Hamill, Albert Taylor, Ted Fulton, Robert Wheatley; review of council, Jacob Weisend; sleight of hand, Joseph Harrington; song, Hugh Hamill; address, John McGarry; intermission; address, "Fraternity," Rev. Thomas Mahan; quartet, Bradley brothers; selection, Mandolin club; song Robert Wheatley; address, "Why I Should Be a Knight of Columbus?" Thomas Duffy; K. of C. quartet; Mandolin club; quartet, Bradley brothers.

A BIG MEETING

Held By Republicans in the Court House at Lisbon.

Lisbon, November 4.—(Special)—Congressman Charles B. Landis, of Indiana, on Saturday night delivered a fine address at a big Republican meeting at the court house. Hon. I. B. Cameron called the meeting to order and Hon. R. W. Taylor acted as chairman.

Every seat in the common pleas court room was occupied and many stood up.

Mr. Landis' address made a deep impression and was attentively listened to.

Defeated at New Cumberland.
The Diamond Indians went to New Cumberland on Saturday and were defeated by the eleven of that town by a score of 5 to 0. The New Cumberland boys were too heavy for the local team, averaging nearly 20 pounds more than the Liverpool players. In addition to this they were given a very bad deal at the hands of the umpire.

PIPING ACROSS RIVER

UNIQUE WORK OF THE OHIO VALLEY GAS CO.

That Concern Now Laying a Main From the East End to Chester.

The Ohio Valley Gas company is putting in what is known as a "regulator" in the alley between Mulberry and First streets. It is a unique improvement and amounts to a kind of governor over the gas pressure in that portion of the city.

The Ohio Valley Gas company is putting a main across the river from the East End to Chester and has made an excavation across the upper end of Babb's island for an 8-inch main, which is very large for a gas service.

The shallow depth of the river has been very favorable to the company's work. All of the excavating has been done and this morning the company started to lay the main. The process of sinking the pipes in the river south of Babb's island after they have been cemented together is interesting.

FIVE MINISTERS

Attended the Second Presbyterian Church And the Services Were Interesting.

At the Second Presbyterian church Sunday evening there were four preachers who sat in the audience. They were: Rev. B. M. Swan, Rev. James N. Swan, Rev. W. E. Hill and Rev. Charles Swan. Rev. N. M. Crowe preached a fine sermon on "The Master Has Come And Called for Thee."

A large audience was present and it was a magnificent service.

The Second church has had much to be proud of lately. Mrs. W. E. Baird returned during the past week from Scio, where she attended a meeting of the Steubenville district of the Y. P. S. C. E.

The junior society of the Second Presbyterian church was accorded the banner society. Its reports were the best of any presented in the presbytery.

At the church last evening Rev. Robert E. Speer, secretary of the board of foreign missions from New York, was present, and gave a short address.

CHEWED UP THE TIGERS

Lisbon Gave East End Foot Ballists Crushing Defeat—Herbert's Nose Again Broken.

The East End Royal Tigers met a terrible defeat at Lisbon Saturday in a foot ball game with the terrors of the county seat. It resulted in a victory of 30 to 0 in favor of Lisbon.

The local players returned home about 11:30 Saturday evening and felt that they might have played a much better game had not two of the best players of the Royal Tigers been incapacitated for the game through practice game accidents.

Herbert, who had his nose broken two weeks ago, was so unfortunate as to have his nose broken again in the game with Lisbon.

A large crowd attended and the Royal Tigers hope, when they are in better shape, to meet the Lisbon team.

Next Saturday they will play Sebring.

EAST END AFFAIRS.

Robert Sokader is visiting friends in Wellsburg.

George Chambers has returned from a business trip to Pittsburgh.

R. E. Larkins and Miss Ida Garner visited friends over Sunday in Palestine.

MASKED ROBBERS

Broke Into a Stark County Farm House, Overpowering the Family.

Canton, November 4.—Six masked robbers broke into the farm house of Balzer Race, northwest of the city, overpowered the father, mother and two sons and ransacked the house. They secured $35 in cash and several certificates of deposit.

Entrance was gained by battering down the door with a fence rail. The elder boy offered resistance and was roughly handled. He received several severe cuts on the head. The robbers stole a rig from the barn and another from a neighbor, John Sheets, and made their escape.

The Sheets rig was found several miles east of the city.

HALLOWE'EN PRANKS

HASTEN THE DEATH OF AN AGED SALEM MAN.

L. L. Shoemaker, a Prominent Citizen, Injured by a Fall, Died Suddenly.

Salem, Nov. 4.—Lucien L. Shoemaker, one of the oldest and most prominent business men of this city, died suddenly Saturday. When he was coming to the store after dinner Friday he tripped on a drag that had been placed on the sidewalk by Halloween celebrators the evening before and was thrown violently to the sidewalk. His arm was badly sprained and he was hurt inwardly. This is thought to have been the cause of his demise. Yesterday he was found dead in a back yard on his premises.

Mr. Shoemaker was born in Richmond, Va., in 1816. His grandfather was a revolutionary soldier. His mother's father was the founder of the Hicksite branch of the Friends.

He began learning the tailor's trade when 13, and followed it in Norristown, O., Minerva and Hanover, serving as postmaster in the former town and as mayor in the latter. Moving to this city later, in 1867 he opened a tailoring establishment and in 1873 erected a large brick building. He was one of the oldest Odd Fellows in the county. Mr. Shoemaker married Amanda Hefser, of Augusta, and was the father of two daughters, Mrs. Sarah C. Wirt, of Indianapolis, and Mrs. Pamela M. Henry, of this city. The funeral was held this afternoon.

UNDER WHEELS OF TRAIN

Steubenville Man Had a Terrible Experience—Escaped With a Broken Leg.

Steubenville, Nov. 4.—C. Fisher, foreman at the La Belle steel works, had a narrow escape from death at noon Saturday, at the Panhandle depot. He tried to board an outgoing passenger train, and missing his hold, was thrown headlong between the curb and wheels.

David Hanley, a bystander, rushed to the imperiled man's assistance and partly pulled him out from his dangerous position when his hold slipped and he fell also. A second time he took hold of Fisher's clothing and then succeeded in dragging him upon the platform. Fisher, who was thoroughly dazed, was carried to a hotel where it was found his right leg was broken, aside from other injuries.

BRIDGE AT STEUBENVILLE

Question of a Thoroughfare to the Panhandle Again Under Discussion.

Steubenville, November 4.—The oft agitated question of a bridge across the Ohio river at this point for general traffic has come to the front again, and in the next few months the company that has been organized to build it may begin its erection.

A bridge for wagons and pedestrian traffic has long been needed and the lack of one has turned much trade from the West Virginia Panhandle and western Pennsylvania to other towns, as there are times when crossing at the ferry cannot be made.

TORONTO CHILD DROWNED

Fell Head First Into a Bucket of Water Which Was Standing in a Field.

Toronto, Nov. 4.—A 19-months-old infant daughter of Alex Armour, of this town, fell head first into a bucket of water Saturday afternoon and was drowned. The child had been dead probably half an hour when found.

The water had been set out in a lot adjoining the Armour residence for a cow to drink, and the child, wandering into the lot, met with the accident which caused its death.

Coal Lands Being Leased.

The Lewis Coal and Coke company, of Warren township, Jefferson county, which has recently taken options on a valuable field of coal consisting of 3,000 acres lying between Portland and Rush Run, has commenced to test the vein. MEMORIAL SERVICES TO BE HELD FOR VILLAMIL.

New York, Nov. 4.—The Spanish steamship Montserrat, on her way home from Havana, came into port Sunday with her flags at half mast. In a mortuary apartment aboard the liner is the body of Admiral Villamil, who lost his life during the encounter with the American ships at Santiago. The body is on the way to Spain. Before the Montserrat leaves the Spanish residents of this city will attend memorial services aboard the steamer.

Havana, Nov. 4.—The cigarmakers of Havana have petitioned the government to expel from Havana the agents of the Tampa Resistencias, who have been trying to persuade workmen to go to Tampa.

Illinois State Senator Died.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 4.—State Senator William Harris died at his home in Hancock county Sunday, of typhoid fever.

Jumped on a Ten-Penny Nail.

The little daughter of Mr. J. N. Powell jumped on an inverted rake made of ten penny nails, and thrust one nail entirely through her foot and a second one half way through. Chamberlain's Pain Balm was promptly applied and five minutes later the pain had disappeared and no more suffering was experienced. In three days the child was wearing her shoe as usual and with absolutely no discomfort. Mr. Powell is a well known merchant of Forkland, Va. Pain Balm is an antiseptic and heals such injuries without maturation and in one-third the time required by the usual treatment. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger, druggist.

STRONG PREDICTIONS

Made by Fusion Leaders in Pennsylvania Regarding Result Tomorrow.

CONFIDENCE IS EXPRESSED

By Regular Republican Leaders—Hot Battle Expected at the Polls in Philadelphia, Over the District Attorneyship.

Philadelphia, Nov. 4.—The campaign just closed in Pennsylvania has attracted more than the ordinary off-year interest in consequence of the fusion of Democrats and Independent Republicans on candidates for the only two state offices to be filled, state treasurer and justice of the supreme court. The independent Republicans, organized under the name of the Union party, joined with the Democrats in the nomination of E. A.
Coray, Jr., (a Republican) for state treasurer, and Herman Yerkes (a Democrat) for supreme court justice, against the regular Republican nominees—Frank G. Harris, for state treasurer, and William P. Potter, for supreme judge.

The fusion leaders are making strong predictions that their candidates will carry the state, while on the other hand the regular Republican leaders express confidence in bringing their candidates safely through, though passively conceding that the majority may be lowered from that of two years ago, when Barnett (Republican) was elected state treasurer by 110,000 majority over Creasy (Democrat).

The campaign in Philadelphia has been unusually active, the interest centering in the fight for district attorney. The regular Republicans, backed by the city and state administration forces and United States Senators Penrose and Quay, placed in nomination John Weaver for district attorney, while the Union party and Municipal League named the present incumbent, P. E. Rothermel, Jr., a Republican. A faction of the Democratic party, however, refused to join the reformers and placed in regular nomination William Wilkins Carr, a Democrat, and postmaster of the city
during the Cleveland administration.
It is generally admitted, however,
that the real battle at the polls on Tuesday will be between the respective adherents of Weaver and Rother-mel. Many prominent Democrats, among them ex-Governor Robert E.
Pattison, have been active participants in the campaign in the interest of Rothermel. The latter was elected in 1898 by a majority of 73,500, but at that time had the support of the regular Republican forces now opposing his re-election.

MOST REASON FOR THANKS,

More Than Any Other People on Earth, Says Roosevelt—Our Sad Affliction.

Washington, Nov. 4.—President Roosevelt Saturday issued his proclamation fixing Thursday, Nov. 28, as a day of national thanksgiving. It follows:

A Proclamation.

The season is high when, according to the time-hallowed custom of our people, the president appoints a day
as the especial occasion for praise and thanksgiving to God.

This thanksgiving finds the people still bowed with sorrow for the death of a great and good president. We mourn President McKinley because we so loved and honored him; and the manner of his death should awaken in the breasts of our people a keen anxiety for the country, and at the same time a resolute purpose not to be driven by any calamity from the path of strong, orderly, popular liberty, which as a nation we have thus far safely trod.

Yet in spite of this great disaster,
it is nevertheless true that no people
on earth have such abundant cause for thanksgiving as we have. The past year in particular has been one of peace and plenty. We have prospered in things material and have been able to work for our own uplifting in things intellectual and spiritual.
Let us remember that, as much has been given us, much will be expected from us; and that true homage comes from the heart as well as from the lips and shows itself in deeds. We can best prove our thankfulness to the Almighty by the way in which on this earth and at this time each of us does his duty to his fellow men.

Now, therefore, I, Theodore Roosevelt, president of the United States,
do hereby designate as a day of general thanksgiving Thursday, the 28th of this present November, and do recommend that throughout the land
the people cease from their wonted occupations, and at their several homes and places of worship reverently thank the Giver of all good for the countless blessings of our national life.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this 2d day of November, in the year of our Lord, One Thousand Nine Hundred and One and of the Independence of the United States the One Hundred and Twenty-sixth.

THE LIBERTY,
ENLARGEMENT,
RELAXATION,
AND ROMANCEOF HARD WORK

By SIR THOMAS LIPTON

HOW much value I place on industry and how I believe in devoted hard work at the thing once for all accepted as a man's "calling" in life may be seen from the fact that even at this stage of my career
I generally work from 9 in the morning to 10 at night. It has been said by many who have a right to speak that labor is never anything but painful, however willingly undertaken and courageously done. But I think this was the conclusion of men who had one of the two kinds of labor to do—the entirely physical and the entirely mental. It is painful to stoop under a burden all day, and "the man with the hoe" is not one of the favorites of fortune.

Nor is the philosopher grappling with infinities anything else than a voluntary martyr. But a mingling of the kinds of work, a variety of interests and of fortunes, the labor of the directing head and that of the obedient hand, the change that traveling brings, even when it is traveling for a purpose—all these make of business anything but a painful vocation.

WORK, WORK, ALWAYS WORK, IS THE ONLY TALISMAN. THE GOODS OF LIFE ARE NOT UNFAIRLY APPORTIONED, AS SOME SUP-POSE. THE MAN OF LEISURE AND OF "PLEASURE" CAN HARDLY COMPLAIN IF HE IS NOT ALSO A MAN OF WEALTH AND OF HEALTH. SUCCESS IN ONE CAREER IS THE REWARD OF SACRI-FICES MADE FOR ITS SAKE.

I do not say that hard work has not its own liberty, its own enlargement, its own relaxation. It has all these. It has also its own romance—a romance that does not exist for the mere dilettante.

THE TRIFLER TRIFLES EVEN WITH HAPPINESS.

I think that the man who makes a great business MUST PUT HIMSELF INTO IT, but I do not mean by that that he must necessarily become a machine. Against that notion I would put a long list of names, beginning with Peabody and not ending with Carnegie.

JOHNSON DODGES TAX.

Nearly a Half Million Dollars
of Unpaid Taxes.

JOHNSON ASKS FOR AN INJUNCTION

To Prevent the Officials of Cuyahoga
County From Collecting This Sum,
Which Is Legally Due, but Which
He Refuses to Pay.

How much heed will Ohio voters pay to the taxation theories and fine dis-tensions of a tax dodger? That is just what Tom L. Johnson is, and with him as the main guy in the Democratic state campaign this year, furnishing
the planks for a "purely state campaign," and supplying the alleged arguments in support of those planks, the Democracy must stand or fall by their self-appointed leader.

Governor Nash has well shown, in reply to Johnson's Bucyrus speech,
that the laws against which he is kicking have been uniformly enforced for
forty years, and that not less than 1,500
Democrats have served officially under this system, which Mr. Johnson styles
fraudulent.

Governor Nash makes the strong
point of the superior probability that
these 1,500 Democrats—governors,
state officials, members of the general assembly, and county auditors—are probably right, and that Mr. Johnson
is mistaken. Or, as Governor Nash properly queries, "must we reach the conclusion that the 1,500 Democrats
have been either fools or knaves, and
that Mr. Johnson is the single wise
and honest man left in the Democratic party of Ohio?"

He may be wise in the sense of shrewd. Almost any one might admit that. But we are not discussing his honesty just here. We are simply putting upon record the statements that come from his own county of Cuyahoga
that the authorities of that county are seeking to secure from him unpaid
taxes and penalties to the amount of $476,722.29.

This vast sum Johnson is resisting,
and has asked the courts of Cuyahoga
county to restrain the officials there
from compelling his payment. The claim against him is that in 1894 he
omitted from his tax return $1,275,000;
in 1895 he omitted $1,500,000; in 1896
he omitted $1,800,000; in 1897 he omitted $2,175,000; in 1898 he omitted $3-525,000; in 1899 he omitted $4,581,000—
and every cent of this was omission,
for he returned not one cent that year
as subject to taxation.

What right has he, under such circumstances, to tell the people of Ohio
what they ought to do? What right
had he at the Democratic state convention to compel that body to throw
down Bryan, and the Kansas City platform, and the Chicago platform, and
the sacred ratio of 16 to 1 for free silver, and to substitute for it, as the issue of the campaign, his theories of taxation, leading up to the single land
tax, by which he would be protected
from paying any taxes, and the entire burden would fall upon the farmer and
the owner of the small homes?

Every vote cast for the Republican ticket in Ohio this fall will be a tribute to the worth and virtues of the great leader who sleeps amid the peaceful stillness of his Canton home. Every vote for the policies which he inaugurated and maintained will be like a tender flower cast upon the tomb of William McKinley, the greatest statesman of modern times.

JOHNSON TAX DODGING

He Owes Nearly a Half Million Dollars in Taxes.

HOW IS THAT FOR A TAX REFORMER

Millionaire Mayor of Cleveland Seeks
to Enjoin Cuyahoga County From Collecting the Taxes Which He Legally Owes.

With Tom Johnsonism in taxation
officially declared by the Democratic state committee to be about all there
is of their campaign in the state, it is mighty interesting to find out just what Tom Johnsonism means in practice.

For one thing, it means he, boasted
of as so liberal and generous and so much of a friend to the people, and an aspirant for the United States senatorship from Ohio, with the Democratic presidential nomination dangling before his eyes, is one of the poorest taxpayers on record.

In 1894 his tax return was only $7260
when the Cuyahoga county officials
claimed it should have been $1,282,259.
In 1895 and 1896, he returned $10,800
each year, when in 1895 it should have been $1,510,800 and $300,000 more the next year.

In 1897 his return shrunk to $9,600,

while the Cuyahoga county authorities

claim that his wealth, figured upon

the ordinary basis of taxation there,

is $2,184,600.

In 1898 his tax return grew smaller

again to $6300, while his tax return

ought to have shown, according to the county officials, two-thirds increase,

making it $3,531,300.

In 1899 his property shrank clean

out of sight, and he made no return

teacher of the state of Ohio, while the

shows that his return ought to have

been $4,581,000 in that same year.

This leaves a total of tax unpaid,

Mr. Tom L. Johnson.

Cuyahoga county is trying to get

this money, but he has gone into the

courts to enjoin the county from compelling him to pay what he asserts he
justly owes.

Let him come up before the people

with clean hands in this matter, and

then he may have some right to talk

to them, and they may be able to muster up patience to listen to him a little bit, although such a record is not reassuring.

This condition of affairs also explains perhaps fully his anxiety to make the Democratic state platform
of this year an opening wedge for his
pet theory of a single land tax; for
under that, his kind of property would
escape entirely and he would pay nothing, and the farmers and the owners
of the small homes would pay the big
end of it all.

This is by the action of the Democratic party an issue in the pending campaign, and Mr. Johnson is their apostle.

Lewis G. Bernard, the political boss

of Hamilton county and the right hand

man of John R. McLean, refused to allow the Duckworth, club of Cincinnati to attend the opening meeting of the Democratic campaign at Bucyrus.

Bernard, like McLean, has no interest in Colonel Kilbourne's election, in fact they both want the colonel defeated.

With Hanna in the box and Foraker

at the bat, we may expect Ohio to capture the legislative pennant at Washington.

I do not say that hard work has not its own liberty, its own enlargement, its own relaxation. It has all these. It has also its own romance—a romance that does not exist for the mere dilettante.

THE TRIFLER TRIFLES EVEN WITH HAPPINESS.

I think that the man who makes a great business MUST PUT HIMSELF INTO IT, but I do not mean by that that he must necessarily become a machine. Against that notion I would put a long list of names, beginning with Peabody and not ending with Carnegie.

JOHNSON DODGES TAX.

of Unpaid Taxes.

JOHNSON ASKS FOR AN INJUNCTION

County From Collecting This Sum,
Which Is Legally Due, but Which
He Refuses to Pay.

How much heed will Ohio voters pay
to the taxation theories and fine ex-
just what Tom L. Johnson is, and with
him as the main guy in the Democratic state campaign this year, furnishing
the planks for a "purely state campaign," and supplying the alleged arguments in support of those planks, the Democracy must stand or fall by their
self-appointed leader.

Governor Nash has well shown, in
reply to Johnson's Bucyrus speech,
that the laws against which he is kicking have been uniformly enforced for
forty years, and that not less than 1,500
Democrats have served officially under
this system, which Mr. Johnson styles
fraudulent.

Governor Nash makes the strong
point of the superior probability that
these 1,500 Democrats—governors,
state officials, members of the general
assembly, and county auditors—are
probably right, and that Mr. Johnson
is mistaken. Or, as Governor Nash
properly queries, "must we reach the conclusion that the 1,500 Democrats
have been either fools or knaves, and
and honest man left in the Democratic party of Ohio?"

He may be wise in the sense of shrewd. Almost any one might admit
that. But we are not discussing his honesty just here. We are simply putting upon record the statements that
come from his own county of Cuyahoga
that the authorities of that county are
seeking to secure from him unpaid
taxes and penalties to the amount of $476,722.29.

This vast sum Johnson is resisting,
and has asked the courts of Cuyahoga
from compelling his payment. The
claim against him is that in 1894 he
omitted from his tax return $1,275,000;
in 1895 he omitted $1,500,000; in 1896
he omitted $1,800,000; in 1897 he omitted $2,175,000; in 1898 he omitted $3-525,000; in 1899 he omitted $4,581,000—
and every cent of this was omission,
for he returned not one cent that year
as subject to taxation.

What right has he, under such circumstances, to tell the people of Ohio
what they ought to do? What right
had he at the Democratic state convention to compel that body to throw
down Bryan, and the Kansas City platform, and the Chicago platform, and
the sacred ratio of 16 to 1 for free silver, and to substitute for it, as the issue of the campaign, his theories of
taxation, leading up to the single land
tax, by which he would be protected
from paying any taxes, and the entire
burden would fall upon the farmer and
the owner of the small homes?

Every vote cast for the Republican
ticket in Ohio this fall will be a tribute
to the worth and virtues of the great
leader who sleeps amid the peaceful
stillness of his Canton home. Every vote for the policies which he inaugurated and maintained will be like a tender flower cast upon the tomb of William McKinley, the greatest states-
man of modern times.

JOHNSON TAX DODGING

Millionaire Mayor of Cleveland Seeks
Legally Owes.

With Tom Johnsonism in taxation
officially declared by the Democratic
mighty interesting to find out just
what Tom Johnsonism means in practice.

For one thing, it means he, boasted
much of a friend to the people, and an aspirant for the United States senatorship from Ohio, with the Democratic presidential nomination dancing before his eyes, is one of the poorest taxpayers on record.

In 1894 his tax return was only $7200
when the Cuyahoga county officials
claimed it should have been $1,252,259.

In 1895 and 1896, he returned $10,800
each year, when in 1895 it should have been $1,510,800 and $390,000 more the
next year.

In 1897 his return shrunk to $9,600,
while the Cuyahoga county authorities
claim that his wealth, figured upon
the ordinary basis of taxation there,
is $2,184,600.

In 1898 his tax return grew smaller
again to $6300, while his tax return
ought to have shown, according to the
county officials, two-thirds increase,
making it $2,531,300.

In 1899 his property shrank clean
out of sight, and he made no return
teacher of the state of Ohio, while the
shows that his return ought to have
been $4,581,000 in that same year.

This leaves a total of tax unpaid,
Mr. Tom L. Johnson.

Cuyahoga county is trying to get
courts to enjoin the county from com-
justly owes.

Let him come up before the people
with clean hands in this matter, and
then he may have some right to talk
to them, and they may be able to muster up patience to listen to him a little bit, although such a record is not
reassuring.

This condition of affairs also explains perhaps fully his anxiety to
make the Democratic state platform
of this year an opening wedge for his
pet theory of a single land tax; for
under that, his kind of property would
escape entirely and he would pay nothing, and the farmers and the owners
end of it all.

This is by the action of the Democratic party an issue in the pending
campaign, and Mr. Johnson is their
apostle.

Lewis G. Bernard, the political boss
of Hamilton county and the right hand
man of John R. McLean, refused to allow the Duckworth club of Cincinnati to attend the opening meeting of
the Democratic campaign at Bucyrus.
Bernard, like McLean, has no inter-
fact they both want the colonel defeated.

With Hanna in the box and Foraker
at the bat, we may expect Ohio to capture the legislative pennant at Washington.

AN UNEQUALED RECORD

There is a Rapidly Increasing Volume Of East Liverpool Evidence Rolling Up For the Great Medicine, Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills.

It would seem that hardly anyone can take Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills without receiving marked benefit. The wonderful action of this medicine in putting people on their feet who are in a weak, run down condition, is the talk of every place they are known.
It is only a short time since they first came to East Liverpool. Yet today they are more in evidence for merit with East Liverpool people than all other medicines combined.

Mr. B. L. Updegraff, of No. 169 Fifth street, East Liverpool, O., says: "As a general and nerve tonic I can recommend Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills I got at Larkins' drug store, corner Sixth and East Market streets. I was at the time feeling run down and nervous.
Not up to the mark in health and needed a tonic. The medicine did its work nicely, and I regained tone, strength and energy again."

DON'T BE DECEIVED.

The issues in the state campaign
which closes tonight are well defined.
The voters have simply to decide whether they will take the state government out of the hands of men who have administered it capably and economically and turn it over to fanatical
theorists who follow Tom Johnson's leadership; whether we shall
elect a state legislature that the people can trust to redistrict the state
into congressional and legislative districts which shall give each section
its proper representation, or whether
that important work shall be turned over to the hands of those who will
gerrymander in the interests of the minority; whether the able statesman, Joseph B. Foraker, shall be returned to the United States senate or
his place shall be filled by one whose
election thereto would reflect discredit
upon the whole state; whether protection and progress shall be approved
or condemned; in short, whether the interests of the people or those of
mere place-hunters shall triumph.

These are the real issues. Voters
should not allow their attention to be diverted from them by the cries of malcontents. The Republicans never had a ticket more worthy of loyal support. Let them do their duty and give it their unqualified approval. The result will be in the interests of good government in Ohio and it will also strengthen the national Republican party for coming contests.

VOTE TO RE-ELECT FORAKER.

Senator Foraker has the qualities
which Americans most admire. He is stalwart and fearless. No dread of personal unpopularity ever deters him
from pursuing the course he believes
to be right or from speaking his mind
in terms that cannot be misunderstood. He is a strong party man, but he is a leader, not a follower. He has helped to shape and put into effect
some of the wisest of Republican measures. His influence for good is potential. The senate needs just such men; the administration needs their support. A vote for the Republican ticket is a vote to return him to Washington to assist in carrying out
the policies which McKinley inaugurated. Vote the straight ticket, and take no chances. If you do not want to strike a blow at the best interests
of the state and nation, do nothing that may by any possibility aid the Democrats to secure a majority in the legislature.

TALKERS AND DOERS.

The last Democratic state administration went out of office leaving the state $2,000,000 in debt. Contrast that with the condition of the state finances today and see whether you desire
to see Ohio go backward or forward.
A vote for Nash is a vote to continue
an administration that has a balance

of $1,520,910 in the treasury. Men who accomplish reform are more worthy to
be trusted than those who simply talk
it.

The Democrats who are now posing
as tax reformers have opposed every
tax reform measure proposed in the legislature during the past ten years.
Republicans have added more than
$1,500,000 a year to the state's revenues, without increasing the fraction of a mill. Ponder this, Democrats!

Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese minister, has won the respect of all America during his stay in this country.
He is honored here while the Chinese government, or the aggregation of incompetents that answers to that name, is not. Therefore Mr. Wu must return home.

"We can best prove our thankfulness to the Almighty by the way in which, on this earth and at this time,
each of us goes his duty to his fellow
men," says President Theodore Roosevelt in his Thanksgiving proclamation.
There is a whole sermon in that sentence.

The Democrats of Ohio favor a tariff
for revenue only. The Wilson bill was
a tariff measure built on that principle, and you remember how it worked.
Are you going to vote against prosperity? If not, give the Republican ticket an unqualified endorsement.

Republicans, you might as well vote
with the Democrats and have done
with it as to help them by staying at home. If you don't want to assist them, get out and vote and urge your Republican neighbors to do likewise.

Governor Nash has upheld the law
with a firm hand. No criticism of his course has ever been made save by those who desired to transgress the
law.

All Ohio has listened in vain for Democrats to advance a single good reason why the Republican state ticket should not be elected.

That "petticoated heathen," the sultan, is fast being taught that his day
for paying debts with promises has gone by.

Governor Nash has put only good
men in office. He not only has sound
business sense, but he knows men.

Democrats are figuring up their ma-
jorities today. It is well. Tomorrow
they will have none to figure up.

Prosperity at home and prestige
abroad. That is the Republican record.
Vote to sustain it.

Don't be attracted by imaginary side
issues, but vote the straight Republican ticket.

Vote early, then go after some habitual stay-at-home and get him to vote.

Place your vote where it will do
most good—in the Republican column.

Republicans, get out the voters,
and you don't need to fear results.

Votes count. Talk does not. Vote.

OBITUARY.

Miss Lizzie Culp.

Miss Lizzie Culp died at the home
of her aunt, Mrs. Benjamin Peeples, on Nevada street, Wellsville, Saturday
afternoon. She had been sick for two years with a trying malady. She was 18 years of age and of a lovable disposition. Her mother died several years ago and since that time she and two sisters have made their home in this city. Besides these sisters she leaves
a father, Mr. Al Culp, one brother and one sister, all of whom are residents
of Irondale. The funeral services were held at her late home this afternoon at 1 o'clock by Rev. C. L. V. Mc-Kee. Interment was made in the New Somerset cemetery.

Mrs. Nancy Schrodch.

Mrs. Nancy Schrodch died at the home of William Bentley, College street, at 11:30 o'clock today. The lady was 82 years of age and had been making
her home with John Wolf, who resides two miles north of town. Last Saturday she came to the city to pay
a visit to relatives and died while here. No definite arrangements have been made for the funeral, but it will likely be held Wednesday.

Mrs. Barbara Berry.

Mrs. Barbara Berry, aged 69 years,
died at the home of her daughter,
Mrs. W. W. Weaver, Washington
street, yesterday morning at 11 o'clock,
of cancer. The remains were this morning taken to Richmond, W. Va., her home on the 8:05 train. The funeral will take place tomorrow. Mrs.
Berry came here last June and has since been ill.

POTTERY NEWS

The proposition of W. H. Deldrick
and others, of East Liverpool, to locate and operate a six-kiln white ware
pottery plant in Salineville has been
met with a popular wave of commendation and a spirit of public interest has shown itself. The preliminary details of securing desirable land
to plat are being completed. Already options have been secured for the
major portion of the property needed
and the others will be signed up with-
in a few days. In all probability the plant will be located on the site of the ball diamond and adjacent land. It is expected that a sale day will be set
some time in the coming month and
by the first of the year enough lots
will be sold to insure the amount of
the bonus, which will allow sufficient
time to prepare to begin work on the
buildings of the plant by the opening of spring or the first of March.—Banner.

James Mackall has resigned his position as kilnhand at Murphy's and accepted a similar one at C. C. Thompson's.

W. C. Lynch left this morning for a short western trip in the interest
of Laughlin No. 2.

Charles Morrow, of Ford City, Pa.,
has accepted a plate jigger at Laugh-
lin's No. 1.

William Grice, packer at Cartwright's, is off duty on account of illness.

John Carroll today accepted a position as jiggerman at the Union.

John Crook, of Rogers, has a place
at the McNicol pottery.

AT THE THEATER

Miss Amy Lee, who appears at the head of a stock company at the Grand opera house tonight for one solid
week, has never before appeared at prices of less than one dollar anywhere, and is generally conceded by
both press and public to be one of the cleverest, as well as most versatile actresses before the public. Miss Lee recently received $1,000 from B. F.
Keith for a four weeks' engagement,
presenting a 15-minute sketch.

The repertoire will consist of plays
especially suited to Miss Lee. Scenic productions are carried for each play
and numerous meritorious specialties
interpolated during each performance.
Miss Lee and her metropolitan company of players will appear Monday
evening in E. J. Swartz's new dramatic comedy, "Miss Harum Scarum," seen here last season at $1 prices.
New and magnificent scenery has been painted by Mr. Frank Platner, of the Academy of Music, New York. A feature of the performance will be
the high-class vaudeville introduced between acts by Mr. Fred Cohn, Mr.
Wilmott Williams, Gipsy Mae Ward,
Baily Liston and Europe's greatest juggler, "Provo," the highest salaried vaudeville act ever taken on tour. The prices for this engagement will be 10, 20 and 30 cents.

EDWARD STOKES

HAS PASSED AWAY.

New York, Nov. 4.—Edward S.
Stokes, who shot Jim Fisk, died at the home of his sister, Mrs. Howard Mc-Nutt, at 731 St. Nicholas avenue, after an illness of two months. Bright's disease was the cause of death. It was not generally known until after Mr. Stokes went to the home of his sister that he had been living with a woman who says she is Roseland Langdon Barclay, and that she is his wife. She said she was married to Mr. Stokes. Mr. and Mrs. McNutt say they have no knowledge of a marriage between Mr. Stokes and the woman, and they do not know anything about the woman, except that she called at their home several times in her efforts to see Mr. Stokes. Mr.
McNutt said the funeral would be private, that the arrangements for it would be at Greenwood. He declined to say anything as to the extent of Mr. Stokes' property. It is believed that Mr. and Mrs. McNutt have come to some kind of understanding with the alleged widow.

Treasurer—W. A. THOMPSON.
Commissioner—EDEN REEDER.
Infirmary Director—G. W. ARMSTRONG.

DON'T BE DECEIVED.

The issues in the state campaign
which closes tonight are well defined.
The voters have simply to decide whether they will take the state government out of the hands of men who have administered it capably and economically and turn it over to fanatical
theorists who follow Tom John-
son's leadership; whether we shall
elect a state legislature that the people can trust to redistrict the state
into congressional and legislative districts which shall give each section
its proper representation, or whether
that important work shall be turned over to the hands of those who will
gerrymander in the interests of the
minority; whether the able statesman, Joseph B. Foraker, shall be returned to the United States senate or
his place shall be filled by one whose
election thereto would reflect discredit
upon the whole state; whether protection and progress shall be approved
or condemned; in short, whether the
interests of the people or those of
mere place-hunters shall triumph.

These are the real issues. Voters
should not allow their attention to be
diverted from them by the cries of malcontents. The Republicans never had a ticket more worthy of loyal
support. Let them do their duty and give it their unqualified approval.
The result will be in the interests of good government in Ohio and it will also
strengthen the national Republican
party for coming contests.

VOTE TO RE-ELECT FORAKER.

Senator Foraker has the qualities
which Americans most admire. He is
stalwart and fearless. No dread of
personal unpopularity ever deters him
from pursuing the course he believes
to be right or from speaking his mind
in terms that cannot be misunder-
stood. He is a strong party man, but he is a leader, not a follower. He has helped to shape and put into effect
some of the wisest of Republican
measures. His influence for good is potential. The senate needs just such
men; the administration needs their
support. A vote for the Republican ticket is a vote to return him to Washington to assist in carrying out
the policies which McKinley inaugurated. Vote the straight ticket, and
take no chances. If you do not want
to strike a blow at the best interests
of the state and station, do nothing
that may by any possibility aid the Democrats to secure a majority in the legislature.

TALKERS AND DOERS.

The last Democratic state administration went out of office leaving the
state $2,000,000 in debt. Contrast that
with the condition of the state finances today and see whether you desire
to see Ohio go backward or forward.
A vote for Nash is a vote to continue
an administration that has a balance

of $1,520,910 in the treasury. Men who
accomplish reform are more worthy to
be trusted than those who simply talk
it.

The Democrats who are now posing
as tax reformers have opposed every
tax reform measure proposed in the
legislature during the past ten years.
Republicans have added more than
$1,500,000 a year to the state's revenues, without increasing the general taxpayer's burden the fraction of a mill. Ponder this, Democrats!

Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese minister, has won the respect of all America during his stay in this country.
He is honored here while the Chinese government, or the aggregation of
incompetents that answers to that
name, is not. Therefore Mr. Wu must return home.

"We can best prove our thankfulness to the Almighty by the way in which, on this earth and at this time,
each of us goes his duty to his fellow
men," says President Theodore Roosevelt in his Thanksgiving proclamation.
There is a whole sermon in that sentence.

The Democrats of Ohio favor a tariff
for revenue only. The Wilson bill was
a tariff measure built on that principle, and you remember how it worked.
Are you going to vote against prosperity? If not, give the Republican ticket an unqualified endorsement.

Republicans, you might as well vote
with the Democrats and have done
with it as to help them by staying at
home. If you don't want to assist them, get out and vote and urge your
Republican neighbors to do likewise.

Governor Nash has upheld the law
with a firm hand. No criticism of his course has ever been made save by
those who desired to transgress the
law.

All Ohio has listened in vain for Democrats to advance a single good
reason why the Republican state ticket should not be elected.

That "petticoated heathen," the sul-
tan, is fast being taught that his day
for paying debts with promises has
gone by.

Governor Nash has put only good
men in office. He not only has sound
business sense, but he knows men.

Democrats are figuring up their ma-
jorities today. It is well. Tomorrow
they will have none to figure up.

Prosperity at home and prestige
abroad. That is the Republican record.
Vote to sustain it.

Don't be attracted by imaginary side
issues, but vote the straight Republican ticket.

Vote early, then go after some habitual stay-at-home and get him to
vote.

Place your vote where it will do
most good—in the Republican column.

Republicans, get out the voters,
and you don't need to fear results.

Votes count. Talk does not. Vote.

Don't be an assistant Democrat.

OBITUARY.

Miss Lizzie Culp.

Miss Lizzie Culp died at the home
of her aunt, Mrs. Benjamin Peeples, on Nevada street, Wellsville, Saturday
afternoon. She had been sick for two years with a trying malady. She was 18 years of age and of a lovable disposition. Her mother died several years ago and since that time she and two sisters have made their home in this city. Besides these sisters she leaves
a father, Mr. Al Culp, one brother and
one sister, all of whom are residents
of Irondale. The funeral services
were held at her late home this afternoon at 1 o'clock by Rev. C. L. V. Mc-Kee. Interment was made in the New
Somerset cemetery.

Mrs. Nancy Schrodch.

Mrs. Nancy Schrodch died at the home of William Benty, College street,
at 11:30 o'clock today. The lady was 82 years of age and had been making
her home with John Wolf, who resides two miles north of town. Last Saturday she came to the city to pay
a visit to relatives and died while
here. No definite arrangements have been made for the funeral, but it will likely be held Wednesday.

Mrs. Barbara Berry.

Mrs. Barbara Berry, aged 69 years,
died at the home of her daughter,
Mrs. W. W. Weaver, Washington
street, yesterday morning at 11 o'clock,
of cancer. The remains were this
morning taken to Richmond, W. Va., her home on the 8:05 train. The funeral will take place tomorrow. Mrs.
Berry came here last June and has
since been ill.

The proposition of W. H. Deldrick
and others, of East Liverpool, to locate and operate a six-kiln white ware
pottery plant in Salineville has been
met with a popular wave of commendation and a spirit of public interest has shown itself. The preliminary details of securing desirable land
to plat are being completed. Already options have been secured for the
major portion of the property needed
and the others will be signed up with-
in a few days. In all probability the
plant will be located on the site of the ball diamond and adjacent land. It is expected that a sale day will be set
some time in the coming month and
by the first of the year enough lots
will be sold to insure the amount of
the bonus, which will allow sufficient
time to prepare to begin work on the
buildings of the plant by the opening of spring or the first of March.—Banner.

James Mackall has resigned his position as kilnhand at Murphy's and
accepted a similar one at C. C. Thomp-
son's.

W. C. Lynch left this morning for a short western trip in the interest
of Laughlin No. 2.

Charles Morrow, of Ford City, Pa.,
has accepted a plate jigger at Laugh-
lin's No. 1.

William Grice, packer at Cart-
wright's, is off duty on account of
illness.

John Carroll today accepted a position as jiggerman at the Union.

John Crook, of Rogers, has a place
at the McNicol pottery.

AT THE THEATER

Miss Amy Lee, who appears at the head of a stock company at the Grand
opera house tonight for one solid
week, has never before appeared at
prices of less than one dollar any-
where, and is generally conceded by
both press and public to be one of the
cleverest, as well as most versatile
actresses before the public. Miss Lee
recently received $1,000 from B. F.
Keith for a four weeks' engagement,
presenting a 15-minute sketch.

The repertoire will consist of plays
especially suited to Miss Lee. Scenic productions are carried for each play
and numerous meritorious specialties
interpolated during each performance.
Miss Lee and her metropolitan company of players will appear Monday
evening in E. J. Swartz's new dramatic comedy, "Miss Harum Scar-um," seen here last season at $1 prices.
New and magnificent scenery has
been painted by Mr. Frank Platner, of
the Academy of Music, New York. A feature of the performance will be
the high-class vaudeville introduced
between acts by Mr. Fred Cohn, Mr.
Wilmott Williams, Gipsy Mae Ward,
Bally Liston and Europe's greatest
juggler, "Provo," the highest salaried
vaudeville act ever taken on tour. The prices for this engagement will be 10, 20 and 30 cents.

WELLSVILLE

THE QUESTION OF BONDS

One of Great Interest—Wellsville Will Vote to Decide It Tomorrow.

The question, shall Wellsville have the gravity water system? will be decided at the polls tomorrow when votes will be cast for or against authorizing the city council to issue bonds aggregating $65,000. For this question to carry it will require a two-thirds vote, a majority not being sufficient. The city's bonded indebtedness up to date for the improvement of the water system is $60,000, which, added to the amount in question would make a total of $125,000. The result of tomorrow's vote is awaited with great interest.

Ladies' Bowling League.

Miss Jeanette Kelly now holds the record among the ladies for high bowling. Her score is 124. There are several others who have scored over the hundred mark. Tomorrow evening will be ladies' night at Campbell's alley, and at least 30 are expected to participate in the game. A league is soon to be organized and rival games will be played weekly.

Taken to Beaver County.

Detective Lazarus came down from Beaver, Pa., Saturday afternoon and took in charge the man who was arrested after a long chase Friday, and who is charged with stealing rope and brass from citizens of Beaver. Upon consideration he decided to return to return without requisition papers, but was rather reluctant to go.

A Pleasant Event.

The bowling party given in Wellsville by a number of Wellsville's young ladies and gentlemen is reported by all a very pleasant event. The games were very exciting throughout, Miss Erla Stevenson scoring 122, which was the highest ever scored by any of the Wellsville young ladies.

Literary Entertainment.

The junior class of the high school will give a literary entertainment at the close of the month. Each member will deliver an oration of three minutes in length. The public is cordially invited.

MINOR NEWS OF WELLSVILLE.

Mrs. Susan Close is sick with the scarlet fever.

Fred George, of West Point, was the guest of relatives in the city Sunday.

Mrs. Sarah Hedley, sick for a month with scarlet fever, has developed a complication of diseases and is quite sick.

Charles Dawson and wife came down from Pittsburgh Saturday, and will remain in the city several days the guests of friends.

J. J. Grafton, foreman of the C. & P. railroad shops, left yesterday for an inspection trip over the entire division. During his absence Ray Godley will act as foreman.

MANY NEW BILLS

WILL BE INTRODUCED BY OUR TOWNSMAN, J. C. WALSH.

If Elected Representative From This County By the People Tomorrow.

Some of the measures Walsh promises if elected representative from this county are as follows: He will secure an appropriation for our city hospital; he will use his best efforts to kill that Robber Law, called the Delinquent Tax Law; he will submit a bill giving to our children free school books; he also promises to do all in his power to give our people good roads. Those things you can be sure of if J. C. Walsh is elected. Of the other two candidates we have been unable to get any statements of what they would do in these matters.

the ball on the visitors' eight yard line when time was called for the first half.

When the home team lined up for play in the second half there was a decided change in the lineup. Swarbrick was substituted for A. Stevenson at right guard, Wheatley took Booth's place at right half and J. Stevenson went to right tackle in place of Holt.

Lee kicked to Baker on the 5 yard line, and the ball was carried back 20 yards before Baker was stopped.

Baker went around right end for 3 yards and Moore made 6 more around the same end. Wheatley lost 5 yards on an attempt to circle left field.

Moore and Baker failed to gain the required ten yards and the ball was given to the visitors.

Eddy gained three yards around left end and Lee made three around right end. Eddy hit right tackle for five yards and Liverpool was penalized 10 yards more for offside play. Eddy, O'Malley and Craig failed to gain and the ball was given to the home team.

Wheatley made 7 yards through left tackle and Baker added 5 more around left end. Stephens waded through right tackle for five yards, and Moore circled right end for 10. Wheatley shot through left tackle for 15 yards and Baker again got three more around the left end of the line.

Through right tackle Stoffel made 4 yards and Wheatley 7. Little failed to gain. Moore made 20 yards on a trick play and on two attempts through right tackle Wheatley was shoved over for the third touchdown. Stoffel kicked goal.

Lee again kicked for the visitors, the punt was fumbled and Craig fell on the ball. Eddy made three and two yards on two attempts to circle right end. Eddy made two yards, Lee two yards, Bumgartner failed to gain and the ball went to the home team on downs.

With the ball on their 10-yard line and only two minutes left to play, the home team began a series of end runs which sent Stoffel over the line for the fourth touchdown of the game. Almost every member of the team took turns carrying the ball, and it was advanced from 5 to 15 yards on every play.

The two teams played with the following lineup:

Referee—Campbell.
Umpire—McClure.

Commencing with the Knights of Labor, of which I was a member from the beginning, I was apprised, however, after I had been in said organization but a short time, that any politics were obnoxious, to and very much disliked by the organization. The leaders used their good offices in electing Judge Wallace over William McKinley, and the effort seemed to be in behalf of meeting their ends, regardless of any other consideration.

The fact, therefore, remains that the Democratic party has fathered all of these proceedings, and I feel, in the interests of good politics, there should be a halt called.

Now, in the case of Sheriff Noragon, I can only say that if ever a man did his duty he did it and while doing it was quite lenient with the Amalgamated Association. As a friend of labor of which I have been and to which I have contributed for years, I would ask you to respectfully consider this proposition.

KILBOURNE AND LABOR

Opposes All Organized Labor In His Own Shops.

SOME FACTS FROM THE RECORD.

He Crushed Out a Labor Union in a Hocking County Brick Factory—His Record as a Director of the Hocking Valley Railway.

Who can explain to the satisfaction of the citizens of Ohio whether they are union labor men or not, the curious conflict between the remarkable claims made for James Kilbourne, Democratic candidate for Governor, as a special friend of the labor cause, and the fact that among the several hundred men employed in his establishment in Columbus there are no labor organizations, and that not many, if any, of his employees are members of such organizations?

Where a man makes no pretense in these matters, this would be really a question between him and his workmen; but when, as in this case, circulars are sent throughout the state to the friends of organized labor, in behalf of this man as their peculiar friend, and his own employees are not in the ranks of organized labor, the trades unionists of the state are invited by those circulars to satisfy themselves as to the facts.

Mr. Kilbourne is in other companies besides the one in Columbus, that, according to his own writing in the tax returns that he made for it in April, 1900, had only $6 cash in hand, nothing in bank, no accounts receivable, no bills receivable, nothing coming from anybody anywhere, while its "salable value" was $1,375,000 on the Tom Johnson plan, the plan adopted by the Democrats as their sacred shibboleth for the present campaign.

One of these concerns is the Columbus Brick and Terra Cotta Company, of which his brother, L. G. Kilbourne, has been superintendent for years. He was the Kilbourne who discharged 35 men for no other cause, according to his own statement, than that they had joined a labor union in the hope that it would help them to get the same wages that other shops in the same line were paying in that neighborhood. The proof of this is the explicit affidavit of Ross Boyles, and also that of John Nugent, the well-known mine worker, who organized the union to which Mr. Boyles and his companion belonged.

This happened twelve years ago, and there is not the slightest record that from that day to this James Kilbourne, "the friend of the workmen," who sends special circulars to organized labor inviting its vote, ever said a word against the action of his brother, the superintendent of the company in which he was largely interested.

Neither is there any record of any protest or opposition upon the part of James Kilbourne, "the laboring man's friend," to the action of the Hocking Valley Railroad Company, when he was one of its directors and that corporation blacklisted its men who had struck, thus driving them out of the railroad service and compelling them to find some other kind of work for the support of their families.

Yet Mr. Kilbourne had a very good example before him in this matter at that time in the action of his neighbor and friend, George K. Nash, now his opponent for Governor of Ohio. Governor Nash tried to get a settlement of the troubles between the company and the men, being the company's attorney at that time, and when this was refused by the corporation, declined to act as its attorney any longer.

He was not as rich then, nor is he now, as Mr. Kilbourne; but he was more practical in his friendship for the men who work for wages. In the same way it may be noted, in passing, that Governor Nash has in all of his appointments concerning labor, been mindful to make his selections from the ranks of organized labor.

One more illustration of the humbuggery of the claim that James Kilbourne is a peculiar (yes, very peculiar) friend of organized labor, is in the relation of his big manufactory to prison-labor material. The records of the two concerns having contracts with the Ohio Penitentiary for its labor, and making articles that the Kilbourne factory could use, show that the Kilbourne concern was a constant and considerable customer for them.

Names, dates and amounts have been printed, with fac similes of the Kilbourne company's orders and remittances—some of them dating since Mr. Kilbourne was nominated for governor. The point about this proof is in its relation to the wonderful claims set up for him. These claims can not agree for a minute with this overwhelming evidence to the contrary, and only make more conspicuous Mr. Kilbourne's actual conduct in the case.

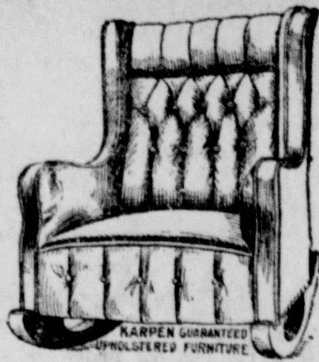

Not merely organized labor men, but a good many other voters, will find in this doubling and twisting, good reason for keeping out of the governorship of Ohio the man who could even permit such things to be done in his behalf.

"Let well enough alone," says Senator Hanna. The senator has always proved a safe adviser; his counsel is safe and should be heeded. He knows how prosperity was lost and restored. He now tells us to maintain it by voting the Republican ticket.

The foundation of prosperity is confidence the people repose in the statesmen who are administering the government. Such is the wise saying of Mark Hanna, and he knows what he is talking about.

FRANKLIN COUNTY DOUBTFUL.

Result at Cleveland and Toledo Likely to Be Close—Democrats Point Out
"Off" Year Conditions, Which Republicans Deny.

Cincinnati, Nov. 4.—Following their closing rally Saturday night, and the receptions to Colonel James Kilbourne, Democratic candidate for governor, and other Democratic leaders Sunday, the Democrats were claiming that they will elect part of their ticket in Hamilton county. It is hardly probable that this will affect the local legislative candidates, but it will materially affect the state ticket if the Democrats should secure part of the county offices here. The Republicans lost both Cuyahoga and Lucas counties two years ago, when Governor Nash had a plurality of 49,000.

Likely to Be Close.
The result at Cleveland and Toledo is likely to be very close. The Republicans concede that the result is doubtful in Franklin county, in which the state capital is located.

The election this year is for a full state ticket and county tickets, as well as members of the legislature.

Resume of Past Results.

During the last half of the century the Democrats have elected only four governors, and with a single exception they were elected in years following presidential elections, which have for that reason become known as "off years." Allen was elected after the presidential election of 1872; Bishop after that of 1876, and Campbell after that of 1888. Heavily was elected on a local liquor issue preceding the presidential election of 1884. The Democrats claim that in addition to the disaffection among the Republicans in Cuyahoga, Franklin, Lucas and other counties, that the traditional "off year" conditions exist as in former years. These conditions did not prevail in 1881, when the death of Garfield is said to have affected the result. They did not prevail in 1885, when Foraker was first elected governor, but that was said to be due to the fact that Cleveland was then president and the disaffection over federal and other appointments was among the Democrats. These conditions did not affect the election of McKinley as governor the first time in 1893, and the same reasons were assigned then as in 1885. The most notable exception to the rule was in 1897, when Governor Bushnell was re-elected.

The Republicans have had uninterrupted control of the state ever since the first election of McKinley as governor in 1891, and in that time they have controlled more of the county and city offices than at any previous period. They deny that any so-called "off year" conditions exist and claim to be in better condition for success than for years.

The managers on both sides are more reluctant about giving out estimates than usual. This is due to the uncertainty as to the shortage in the vote on both sides, and the Republicans say it prevents them from predicting as closely as usual the extent of their plurality.

Local Option Has Figured.

The question of "local option" has been prominently agitated in this campaign, but with the brewers and liquor organizations on one side and the Ohio Anti-Saloon league on the other, this issue is considered a standoff between the two leading parties. The only large city in which this issue has figured is Columbus. It is directed solely at members of the legislature, and some of the "leaguers" have been opposing Senator Foraker's re-election by fighting candidates that would support him.

MOST PREACHERS FOR FUSION.

With Few Exceptions, They Denounced Situation in New York.
Predictions of Leaders.

New York, Nov. 4.—The feature of the local political campaign Sunday was the active part taken in it by the pastors of the churches. Thirty-one pastors and two leaders of independent church societies advertised themselves to speak on the issues of the election, and all these clergymen took for their subjects the alleged maladministration of the present city officers. Rabbi Schulman, the one Jewish priest whose sermon was reported, urged on his hearers the support of the fusion ticket, because of the revelations concerning vice in the tenement districts.

All the Protestant pastors represented, except two, talked for the fusion ticket, asserting that vice and unsanitary conditions existed here and a change was needed. The exceptions were of the Rev. Dr. David G. Wylie, of the Scotch Presbyterian church, and the Rev. Dr. Vandewater, of St. Andrew's Episcopal church, who advised their congregations to examine the two tickets closely and vote for the best men on them. Henry Frank, of the Metropolitan Independent church, advised his hearers to vote "against bosses, whether they came from this city or Tioga county."

The Rev. Father J. Ducey, of St. Leo's Roman Catholic church, was alone in those reported who spoke on the election for the Shepard side.

One of the features of the fusion campaign has been the work of the women's campaign committees. A report issued Sunday said this committee had distributed several hundred thousand copies in English and German of a pamphlet purporting to be an expose of vice in the city. Democrats also had a women's campaign committee actively at work during the canvass, but no report of its labors has yet appeared.

More Meetings to Be Held.

While the fusion campaign practically closed Saturday night, a few more meetings have been scheduled for today and tonight. Senator Depew is down for a speech during the day at a meeting to last from noon until 5 p. m.

The Democratic campaign was carried on with vigor last night, the party leaders having engaged five theaters, and from the stages of these the orators cheered their supporters with words of coming victory.

The Democrats intend to carry the work up to the last moment, and Sunday had not changed their forecast, which is that Mr. Shepard will receive a majority in the Greater city of about 65,000.

Robert C. Morris, of the Republican committee, repeated his assertion of Saturday that Mr. Low's majority would be 70,000 in Greater New York.

Superintendent of Elections McCullagh Sunday addressed a letter to Police Commissioner Murphy informing him that it had been ascertained that a large gang of repeaters had been organized in Jersey City to come over to New York to vote in the Ninth assembly district in this city. His information also was that another gang had been formed in that district to invade Jersey City, and he asked Colonel Murphy's assistance in preventing the repeaters from voting. Chief Murphy, of Jersey City, was also informed of the alleged attempt to be made to vote illegally.

Both Claim New York.

New York, Nov. 4.—Both state committees have compiled tables made up from reports from various counties of the state. The Republicans by their figures show that Franklin Murphy, their candidate for governor, who is chairman of the committee, will be elected by 10,000 majority. The table compiled by William B. Gourley, chairman of the Democratic state committee, shows that Mayor Seymour will have about 8,000 majority.

HIGH MASS WAS SUSPENDED.

In Holy Name Cathedral, Chicago, Because Excommunicated Priest Would Not Leave.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—There was an intensely dramatic scene in Holy Name cathedral Sunday. Jeremiah J. Crowley, the excommunicated Roman Catholic priest, had entered the church unobserved, passing up the center aisle, and had taken a seat almost under the pulpit. Solemn high mass was being celebrated at the time. When the presence of Father Crowley became known Rev. Francis J. Barry, chancellor of the archdiocese of Chicago, was hurriedly sent for. Upon entering the cathedral he went straight to the seat where the excommunicated clergyman was kneeling and ordered him to leave the church. Father Crowley refused to go, saying: "Put me out if you dare."

The strain was intense, and one woman in the congregation fainted. There was no resort to force, however. Chancellor Barry signalled to a man in the choir loft and the sound of the organ ceased and the singing of the choir was hushed. The priests in the altar stopped the solemn service at the end of the "Gloria" and walked to the benches and laid aside their golden vestments. The altar boys marched out of the sanctuary through a side door and the priests, clad in their cassocks, followed. The next moment the hundreds of incandescent lights in the vaulted arches were extinguished and the candle lights on the altar were put out.

The strain was broken when Chancellor Barry appeared in the pulpit and said:

"Owing to the presence in this sacred edifice of an excommunicated priest the solemn high mass has been suspended. We will proceed with a low mass."

No sermon was delivered, however, and the mass was at an end before the congregation was calm again.

Crowley Sues Chancellor.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—The Rev. Jeremiah J. Crowley entered suit in the superior court for $50,000 against the Rev. Francis J. Barry, chancellor of the Catholic archdiocese of Chicago. The suit is the outgrowth of Father Crowley's recent denunciation and expulsion from the church following charges which he made against Father Muldoon, then about to be consecrated as a bishop.

AFRAID FOR MISS STONE.

Nothing Made Public, at Constantinople, Which Caused Disquietude.

Constantinople, Nov. 4.—Nothing is publicly known here beyond what has already been cabled to the Associated Press regarding the whereabouts and fate of Miss Ellen M. Stone, the abducted American missionary, or the progress of the negotiations for her ransom. In the absence of news there is considerable disquietude.

A Priest Died Suddenly.

Chester, Pa., Nov. 4.—Rev. Thomas J. McGlynn, pastor of the Roman Catholic church of the Immaculate Heart, died Sunday morning while making preparations for mass. He had been in ill health, the result of disabilities due to his years. He rose from his bed to dress, when he swooned, and in a short time died.

WELLSVILLE

THE QUESTION OF BONDS

One of Great Interest—Wellsville Will Vote to Decide It Tomorrow.

The question, shall Wellsville have the gravity water system? will be decided at the polls tomorrow when votes will be cast for or against authorizing the city council to issue bonds aggregating $65,000. For this question to carry it will require a two-thirds vote, a majority not being sufficient. The city's bonded indebtedness up to date for the improvement of the water system is $60,000, which, added to the amount in question would make a total of $125,000. The result of tomorrow's vote is awaited with great interest.

Ladies' Bowling League.

Miss Jeanette Kelly now holds the record among the ladies for high bowling. Her score is 124. There are several others who have scored over the hundred mark. Tomorrow evening will be ladies' night at Campbell's alley, and at least 30 are expected to participate in the game. A league is soon to be organized and rival games will be played weekly.

Taken to Beaver County.

Detective Lazarus came down from Beaver, Pa., Saturday afternoon and took in charge the man who was arrested after a long chase Friday, and who is charged with stealing rope and brass from citizens of Beaver. Upon consideration he decided to return to return without requisition papers, but was rather reluctant to go.

A Pleasant Event.

The bowling party given in Wellsville by a number of Wellsville's young ladies and gentlemen is reported by all a very pleasant event. The games were very exciting throughout, Miss Erika Stevenson scoring 122, which was the highest ever scored by any of the Wellsville young ladies.

Literary Entertainment.

The junior class of the high school will give a literary entertainment at the close of the month. Each member will deliver an oration of three minutes in length. The public is cordially invited.

MINOR NEWS OF WELLSVILLE.

Mrs. Susan Close is sick with the scarlet fever.

Fred George, of West Point, was the guest of relatives in the city Sunday.

Mrs. Sarah Hedley, sick for a month with scarlet fever, has developed a complication of diseases and is quite sick.

Charles Dawson and wife came down from Pittsburgh Saturday, and will remain in the city several days the guests of friends.

J. J. Grafton, foreman of the C. & P. railroad shops, left yesterday for an inspection trip over the entire division. During his absence Ray Godley will act as foreman.

One more illustration of the humbuggery of the claim that James Kilbourne is a peculiar (yes, very peculiar) friend of organized labor, is in the relation of his big manufactory to prison-labor material. The records of the two concerns having contracts with the Ohio Penitentiary for its labor, and making articles that the Kilbourne factory could use, show that the Kilbourne concern was a constant and considerable customer for them.

Names, dates and amounts have been printed, with fac similes of the Kilbourne company's orders and remittances—some of them dating since Mr. Kilbourne was nominated for governor. The point about this proof is in its relation to the wonderful claims set up for him. These claims can not agree for a minute with this overwhelming evidence to the contrary, and only make more conspicuous Mr. Kilbourne's actual conduct in the case.

Not merely organized labor men, but a good many other voters, will find in this doubling and twisting, good reason for keeping out of the governorship of Ohio, the man who could even permit such things to be done in his behalf.

"Let well enough alone," says Senator Hanna. The senator has always proved a safe adviser; his counsel is safe and should be heeded. He knows how prosperity was lost and restored. He now tells us to maintain it by voting the Republican ticket.

The foundation of prosperity is confidence the people repose in the statesmen who are administering the government. Such is the wise saying of Mark Hanna, and he knows what he is talking about.

FRANKLIN COUNTY DOUBTFUL.

Result at Cleveland and Toledo Likely to Be Close—Democrats Point Out "Off" Year Conditions, Which Republicans Deny.

Cincinnati, Nov. 4.—Following their closing rally Saturday night, and the reception to Colonel James Kilbourne, Democratic candidate for governor, and other Democratic leaders Sunday, the Democrats were claiming that they will elect part of their ticket in Hamilton county. It is hardly probable that this will affect the local legislative candidates, but it will materially affect the state ticket if the Democrats should secure part of the county offices here. The Republicans lost both Cuyahoga and Lucas counties two years ago, when Governor Nash had a plurality of 49,000.

Likely to Be Close. The result at Cleveland and Toledo is likely to be very close. The Republicans concede that the result is doubtful in Franklin county, in which the state capital is located.

Resume of Past Results.

During the last half of the century the Democrats have elected only four governors, and with a single exception they were elected in years following presidential elections, which have for that reason become known as "off years." Allen was elected after the presidential election of 1872; Bishop after that of 1876, and Campbell after that of 1888. Headly was elected on a local liquor issue preceding the presidential election of 1884. The Democrats claim that in addition to the disaffection among the Republicans in Cuyahoga, Franklin, Lucas and other counties, that the traditional "off year" conditions exist as in former years. These conditions did not prevail in 1881, when the death of Garfield is said to have affected the result. They did not prevail in 1885, when Foraker was first elected governor, but that was said to be due to the fact that Cleveland was then president and the disaffection over federal and other appointments was among the Democrats. These conditions did not affect the election of McKinley as governor the first time in 1893, and the same reasons were assigned then as in 1885. The most notable exception to the rule was in 1897, when Governor Bushnell was re-elected.

The Republicans have had uninterrupted control of the state ever since the first election of McKinley as governor in 1891, and in that time they have controlled more of the county and city offices than at any previous period. They deny that any so-called "off year" conditions exist and claim to be in better condition for success than for years.

The managers on both sides are more reluctant about giving out estimates than usual. This is due to the uncertainty as to the shortage in the vote on both sides, and the Republicans say it prevents them from predicting as closely as usual the extent of their plurality.

Local Option Has Figured.

The question of "local option" has been prominently agitated in this campaign, but with the brewers and liquor organizations on one side and the Ohio Anti-Saloon league on the other, this issue is considered a standoff between the two leading parties. The only large city in which this issue has figured is Columbus. It is directed solely at members of the legislature, and some of the "leaguers" have been opposing Senator Foraker's re-election by fighting candidates that would support him.

MOST PREACHERS FOR FUSION.

With Few Exceptions, They Denounced Situation in New York. Predictions of Leaders.

New York, Nov. 4.—The feature of the local political campaign Sunday was the active part taken in it by the pastors of the churches. Thirty-one pastors and two leaders of independent church societies advertised themselves to speak on the issues of the election, and all these clergymen took

for their subjects the alleged maladministration of the present city officers. Rabbi Schulman, the one Jewish priest whose sermon was reported, urged on his hearers the support of the fusion ticket, because of the revelations concerning vice in the tenement districts.

All the Protestant pastors represented, except two, talked for the fusion ticket, asserting that vice and unsanitary conditions existed here and a change was needed. The exceptions were of the Rev. Dr. David G. Wylie, of the Scotch Presbyterian church, and the Rev. Dr. Vandewater, of St. Andrew's Episcopal church, who advised their congregations to examine the two tickets closely and vote for the best men on them. Henry Frank, of the Metropolitan Independent church, advised his hearers to vote "against bosses, whether they came from this city or Tioga county."

The Rev. Father J. Ducey, of St. Leo's Roman Catholic church, was alone in those reported who spoke on the election for the Shepard side.

One of the features of the fusion campaign has been the work of the women's campaign committees. A report issued Sunday said this committee had distributed several hundred thousand copies in English and German of a pamphlet purporting to be an expose of vice in the city. Democrats also had a women's campaign committee actively at work during the canvass, but no report of its labors has yet appeared.

More Meetings to Be Held. While the fusion campaign practically closed Saturday night, a few more meetings have been scheduled for today and tonight. Senator Dewey is down for a speech during the day at a meeting to last from noon until 5 p. m.

The Democratic campaign was carried on with vigor last night, the party leaders having engaged five theaters, and from the stages of these the orators cheered their supporters with words of coming victory.

The Democrats intend to carry the work up to the last moment, and Sunday had not changed their forecast, which is that Mr. Shepard will receive a majority in the Greater city of about 65,000.

Robert C. Morris, of the Republican committee, repeated his assertion of Saturday that Mr. Low's majority would be 70,000 in Greater New York. Superintendent of Elections McCullagh Sunday addressed a letter to Police Commissioner Murphy informing him that it had been ascertained that a large gang of repeaters had been organized in Jersey City to come over to New York to vote in the Ninth assembly district in this city. His information also was that another gang had been formed in that district to invade Jersey City, and he asked Colonel Murphy's assistance in preventing the repeaters from voting. Chief Murphy, of Jersey City, was also informed of the alleged attempt to be made to vote illegally.

HIGH MASS WAS SUSPENDED.

In Holy Name Cathedral, Chicago, Because Excommunicated Priest Would Not Leave.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—There was an intensely dramatic scene in Holy Name cathedral Sunday. Jeremiah J. Crowley, the excommunicated Roman Catholic priest, had entered the church unobserved, passing up the center aisle, and had taken a seat almost under the pulpit. Solemn high mass was being celebrated at the time. When the presence of Father Crowley became known Rev. Francis J. Barry, chancellor of the archdiocese of Chicago, was hurriedly sent for. Upon entering the cathedral he went straight to the seat where the excommunicated clergyman was kneeling and ordered him to leave the church. Father Crowley refused to go, saying: "Put me out if you dare."

The strain was intense, and one woman in the congregation fainted. There was no resort to force, however. Chancellor Barry signalled to a man in the choir loft and the sound of the organ ceased and the singing of the choir was hushed. The priests in the altar stopped the solemn service at the end of the "Gloria" and walked to the benches and laid aside their golden vestments. The altar boys marched out of the sanctuary through a side door and the priests, clad in their cassocks, followed. The next moment the hundreds of incan-

descent lights in the vaulted arches were extinguished and the candle lights on the altar were put out.

The strain was broken when Chancellor Barry appeared in the pulpit and said:

"Owing to the presence in this sacred edifice of an excommunicated priest the solemn high mass has been suspended. We will proceed with a low mass."

No sermon was delivered, however, and the mass was at an end before the congregation was calm again.

Crowley Sues Chancellor.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—The Rev. Jeremiah J. Crowley entered suit in the superior court for $50,000 against the Rev. Francis J. Barry, chancellor of the Catholic archdiocese of Chicago. The suit is the outgrowth of Father Crowley's recent denunciation and expulsion from the church following charges which he made against Father Muldoon, then about to be consecrated as a bishop.

AFRAID FOR MISS STONE.

Nothing Made Public, at Constantinople, Which Caused Disquietude.

Constantinople, Nov. 4.—Nothing is publicly known here beyond what has already been cabled to the Associated Press regarding the whereabouts and fate of Miss Ellen M. Stone, the abducted American missionary, or the progress of the negotiations for her ransom. In the absence of news there is considerable disquietude.

A Priest Died Suddenly.

Chester, Pa., Nov. 4.—Rev. Thomas J. McGlynn, pastor of the Roman Catholic church of the Immaculate Heart, died Sunday morning while making preparations for mass. He had been in ill health, the result of disabilities due to his years. He rose from his bed to dress, when he swooned, and in a short time died.

CHAPTER XVI.

VISIONS.

LAURE'S quick eye perceived the change in Evariste's bearing. She saw the lofty confidence in his face as he passed to and from the Latiolais home with increasing frequency and understood that he felt he had been lifted above the level on which she stood, far and beyond her reach. And Quillebert's manner of easy familiarity and assured control she attributed to his belief that her passion for the young man must be attenuated by the suddenly lengthened distance from its object. But her stout heart was not dismayed nor were her faculties blunted by contact with difficulties. Her hate was strong and unyielding; her love was fierce and selfish. She had never forgiven Estelle the defeat in the contest for sponsorship of the church bell. She had an added grievance against her as the magnet which drew him who was her own life's loadstone and abhorred her as the source of Quillebert's hope of power over herself. That Estelle loved Horace and could never love again; that marriage with Evariste would make her life one long, bitter misery, she well knew. But welcome as was that prospect to her hatred, it terrified her love as its doom. Estelle's punishment and her own suffering were inseparably involved. The counter currents of passion met in her, and, as the scientists declare of the sinusoidal positives and negatives of electricity, instead of annihilating each other, commingled and produced a force partaking of the natures of both. Her watchfulness of Quillebert was sharpened, her demeanor toward Evariste grew bolder and warmer, and she refused to admit into her mind a doubt of her final triumph over both.

The cause of the Confederacy was expiring when the Federal commander ordered the burning of the Proshame distillery near Mansura, from which Dede's cabaret had long drawn its supply of rum. That notable bonfire was thus enabled to double the price for the goodly store of it he had then on hand. The conflagration attracted the country folk in large numbers. Among the spectators were Quillebert, Evariste and Latiolais, who had awaited it at the cabaret; also Laure, returning from a visit to the little milliner at Marksville, viewed the spectacle from a favorable point which she selected near Evariste. When the dense black flushed and paled her brown face and escaped in sighs from her heaving bosom, and she threw from dark, melting eyes glances of yearning and adoration upon her unseeing companion for which many a Gasconoid would gladly have given all his worldly possessions. Arrived at the cottage, she drew a bunch of keys from her reticule and, begging Evariste to await her on the veranda, unlocked the door and entered. The stillness of the house and all its surroundings, the motionless prospect of open field and rigid forest, the creeping shadows of evening and Laure's words, "They dread her curse the more because she is dead," worked insidiously upon the scotcher a sense of the uncanny, and Evariste was oppressed by a feeling of the presence of the old doctress. Dreamily he fell into a reverie, in which he seemed to receive a presentiment from the white haired oracle. A footstep recalled him, and he started, as if at an apparition, upon beholding Laure, her head bared and the luxuriant hair tumbling in wavelets about her forehead, clad in the gown of filmy, clinging fabric she had worn the day he gave her the crescent of rubies and diamonds. Her ripened figure, of voluptuous contour, strained to the utmost the delicate enveloping tissue. Entreaty was in her moist eyes, passion in her mantling cheeks. Quivering lips and quick breath betrayed the agitation of her heart. Rich, glowing, tropical, her beauty was that of the red lily. Evariste gazed upon her in mute, admiring wonder.

"Hear me patiently, Evariste, and weigh well what I will say." There was intense pleading in her voice, and as she drew near to him he could see the rapid throbbing of the veins in her satiny neck. "You have book learning and know the ways and rules of what is called society. You understand the business and politics of men. But you do not know yourself or human nature. I do. It is a gift. Your passions possess you. If you attempt to hide them, they consume you. Opposition slays discretion and sends you on reckless courses. You have never been happy. You envied your brother. His very generosity irritated you. His fortune you coveted and his intended wife. Both desires were enemies to your content. Your heart was lighter when you had none of his fortune than now that you possess it all. You would be more at peace with only the half he promised you."

"And should you acquire the woman as you did the fortune, your wretchedness would be complete and beyond other cure than death. She will never love you. Her weak spirit would yield a fearful, meek submission, which would rub against the grain of your temper, hold you back, fret you and end in tragedy."

"Indeed, Laure, you talk very like a fortune teller," Evariste said coldly, "and I foresee quite a career for you in taking horoscopes. You will have many patrons, but at present I do not care to be numbered among them."

"Do not make light of what I am saying," Laure implored. "Be just to yourself, Evariste, and to me. I know that fine ladies would condemn me in this, but I know they would be hypocrites. Abandon the pursuit of that which can only desolate your life, and—come, Evariste, to me, who alone can." Her speech was stifled by a rising sob. Opening her arms to him, devouring him with her passion lit eyes, her face aflame, she put aside restraint from her words, which came burning from her ravishing lips. "Oh, Evariste, I love you! I care not what you think of me for saying it. I love you. Do you hear, Evariste? I love you. My love is not what these people about us call love. My love is myself. Apart from it I am not; without it I cannot breathe or sleep or think—I do not exist. And you are my love, you are my life. Without you I cease to be. Would not you defy the world's opinion to save your life? I live but once, I love but once. Life and love, they are but one to me. Then I brave the world to save my love, my life."

Pausing for breath, she saw the frown which had settled upon his brow, and as scalding tears coursed down her cheeks she said in supplicating tone:

"No other woman can ever know you so perfectly as I do, Evariste. No one can smooth your path as I can. No one will ever understand how to stay and direct your impulses as I will. I can and will be your watchful guardian, your faithful slave. It is not your fortune I crave; it is only you. All interest in the estate I would renounce. I would sell this little place my grandmother left and maintain myself upon its proceeds. I care nothing for dress or luxury. It is only you I want. Oh, come to me, Evariste, and let me compel your love and happiness! Save me from myself and let me save you from yourself. Come to me in peace and wait not till you must fly to me for refuge from storm."

It cost Evariste an effort to steel himself against the power of such a revelation of beauty and passion. But his answer was delivered coldly and harshly.

"There is at least one insurmountable obstacle to what you propose," he said.

"Name it, and I will overcome it," Laure exclaimed hopefully.

"You cannot." He gave a cruel emphasis to his words. "It is your position in Quillebert's household."

She sprang to her feet, every fiber of her being tingling with the sting of this thrust, and glared upon him with the fury of a wounded tigress.

"You know your words imply a mean lie," she cried. Checking her anger, covering her burning face for an instant and gulping back the bitter speech, she presented to him an offended countenance struggling for calmness and added:

"But go your way. I cannot renounce you and live. Thus far I have waited and suffered. I can endure a little more. It will not last very much longer, for, Evariste, come to me you will and in the flight of terror. I see it! I will wait!"

There was in her manner the positiveness of prescience which awed the man who had prided himself on impassibility, and he turned away perturbed and vexed. She re-entered the dark room and, flinging herself into the huge chair of her grandmother, sat staring into the future until the fury within her had spent itself. As if charged with the sturdiness of spirit which had borne the old doctress through many a trial, she resolutely exclaimed:

"He shall not, though it take his death and mine to prevent!"

Resuming the gown she had worn through the day, Laure composed her features and returned to Quillebert's dwelling, loathing it now as a charnel house, but choosing not yet to leave it.

CHAPTER XVII.

THE VIRGIN WIDOW.

IT is the curse of many to desire most those things they have least courage to attempt. Innumerable Caesars are chained to plows by dread of unseen hordes of Gauls; endless rows of would be Rothschilds stand behind counters measuring tape, not daring to leap over into the fluctuating sea of values, and Mirabeaus sit mute at every country crossroads lest the world should hiss. A brave act, a bold venture, an earnest word might win the prize, but the arm hangs, the project lags, the lips are dumb in the presence of a possible negation. To such what might be ever holds more terrors than what is.

Evariste Oakfell was thus affected. He had rushed into dissolute ways to profit by the evil talents of his brother's foe. He had recklessly embarked in Quillebert's perilous and piratical commerce to enrich himself. He had ruthlessly spurned the love of a lion hearted woman to be untrammelled in the pursuit of a shrinking maiden. Without compunction he had traded with a villain for the proofs of a guardian's infidelity to his trust in order to coerce the submission of the ward. Unflinchingly he had suppressed the true will of his brother and propounded a forgery to render defenseless her whom that brother had loved and sought to protect.

All these had he dared and done and had experienced no trepidation or sting of conscience. But that to which they had reference only, that to which they were designed as mere aids, appalled him. His mind by day and night reveled in imaginings of joyous life with Estelle his wedded wife. A hundred times he set forth determined to make his bliss assured and returned with void yearnings and nothing more. He dared not hear refusal from her pale lips. Could he brave that the course of cruel duress and compulsion he had prepared would be easy, swift and grateful to his temper. But his vanity shrank from her rejection. He sought to convince himself that she would not, could not, say the dreaded word, and yet he knew she had loved Horace and feared she would be loyal to that love. Though armed with the instrumentalities for forcing her consent, he was unable to expel the unquieting belief that the frail, gentle girl was in character such as Carlyle describes his wife, "In her bright career she had more sorrows than are common, but also a soft invincibility, a clearness of discernment, a noble loyalty of heart, which are rare."

Impatient, fretting, chafing at his timorousness, he nurtured his design upon Estelle—it was destitute of the tenderness and generous warmth of love—until it became a mania. Yet he lingered, held back, deferred the test of his fate, not noting the flight of time. The dirge of the Confederacy was sung at Appomattox, and still he halted.

But another spirit more masterful than his rebelled against this procrastination.

"Yes," Evariste replied uninterestingly.

"Then the period has come when I must wind up my affairs here and go back to France, for a time at least, if not permanently," Quillebert continued. "Some of my Christian neighbors are zealous to have the United States authorities pry into my business. My absence will not facilitate them."

"Well, Constant, how can I speed you?"

"Settle our business first. I owe you $8,000 on the last cotton sales. Which do you prefer, the money or the absolute transfer of those two Latiolais papers?"

"You said you would give me those papers."

"I said I would put them at your service free of charge, but you have never called on me for them, and I have no assurance you will ever use them for the purpose which induced my promise. That brings us to the second thing you must do to speed my departure."

The Geneva Century Tree.

On Maple hill, one mile west of the village of Geneva, stands one of the largest trees in the state. It is 120 feet high, 115 feet in diameter, measured through the branches, and the diameter of the trunk is eight feet. Maple hill is on the highest ridge in the vicinity of Geneva, and the tree can be seen for many miles from nearly every point of the compass. For many years the turnpike (now Hamilton street) on which the tree stands was an Indian trail. The trail became a state road in 1794.

Somewhere about 100 years ago a prospector named Ephraim Lee passed through the present site of Geneva on a trip over the old Albany and Buffalo turnpike. On his journey around the foot of Seneca lake he cut a stick to help himself along. At the summit of Maple hill he stuck his cane in the rich earth and, lying down, went to sleep. It was late when he awoke, and he resumed his tramp, forgetting the freshly cut green stick, which soon rooted and sprouted and grew to be the "monarch of the forest." Lee's story preserved the tree when the forest was cleared all about it, and in 1843 the trunk was driven full of spikes so that an unsentimental roadmaster could not cut it down! It is believed that the iron is the cause of its wonderful thrifty old age. When General Lafayette visited Geneva, he was met by a cavalcade which waited under this tree for the distinguished visitor.—Buffalo Express.

The Young of the Sea Devil.

You may find in the sea devil a curious illustration of nature's system for adjusting reproduction. The cod lays several hundred thousand eggs at a spawning because nearly all of them must necessarily be lost while floating on the waves and those which hatch are mostly devoured. But the sea devil, which produces but a single young one at a time, retains the latter in its belly until the infant creature is from four to six feet in length, so that when born it is able to take care of itself and is in no danger of being destroyed.

folds of smoke hung sullenly over the ruin, laying a pall upon the dead damnation, she said to him:

"I have seen nothing in that foul cloud the souls of men lost through the product of this vanished manufactory of Satan."

"A vision seeing an inheritance like sensing?" Evariste asked sarcastically. "I believe it is. I see visions often."

"Is the one power as reliable as the other?"

"Yes, but the visions depress me. They are so real."

"Then why do you indulge them?"

"Because I cannot banish or resist them."

"Why, Laure, you may yet become a doctress."

"No."

"Why not?"

"Because you will prevent."

"Not I," said Evariste positively.

"Yes, you," she insisted, with firmness.

"It is a true prophecy. I know nothing of Cassandra. Come with me, please. I wish to stop for a moment at the old cottage to get a book of my grandmother's which I left there."

"I will be delighted," he assented, with a condescending air which was not lost upon her. "Are you not fearful that those things will be stolen from the deserted cottage?"

Arrived at the cottage, she drew a bunch of keys from her reticule and, begging Evariste to await her on the veranda, unlocked the door and entered. The stillness of the house and all its surroundings, the motionless prospect of open field and rigid forest, the creeping shadows of evening and Laure's words, "They dread her curse the more because she is dead," worked insidiously upon the scotcher a sense of the uncanny, and Evariste was oppressed by a feeling of the presence of the old doctress. Dreamily he fell into a reverie, in which he seemed to receive a presentiment from the white haired oracle. A footstep recalled him, and he started, as if at an apparition, upon beholding Laure, her head bared and the luxuriant hair tumbling in wavelets about her forehead, clad in the gown of filmy, clinging fabric she had worn the day he gave her the crescent of rubies and diamonds. Her ripened figure, of voluptuous contour, strained to the utmost the delicate enveloping tissue. Entirely was in her moist eyes, passion in her mantling cheeks. Quivering lips and quick breath betrayed the agitation of her heart. Rich, glowing, tropical, her beauty was that of the red lily. Evariste gazed upon her in mute, admiring wonder.

"Hear me patiently, Evariste, and weigh well what I will say." There was intense pleading in her voice, and as she drew near to him he could see the rapid throbbing of the veins in her satiny neck. "You have book learning and know the ways and rules of what is called society. You understand the business and politics of men. But you do not know yourself or human nature. I do. It is a gift. Your passions possess you. If you attempt to hide them, they consume you. Opposition slays discretion and sends you on reckless courses. You have never been happy. You envied your brother. His very generosity irritated you. His fortune you coveted and his intended wife. Both desires were enemies to your content. Your heart was lighter when you had none of his fortune than now that you possess it all. You would be more at peace with only the half he promised you."

Alarm came to Evariste's face at these words, but whether she detected it or not she continued her dissection of his life without pause.

"And should you acquire the woman as you did the fortune, your wretchedness would be complete and beyond other cure than death. She will never love you. Her weak spirit would yield a fearful, meek submission, which would rob against the grain of your temper, hold you back, fret you and end in tragedy."

"Indeed, Laure, you talk very like a fortune teller," Evariste said coldly, "and I foresee quite a career for you in taking horoscopes. You will have many patrons, but at present I do not care to be numbered among them."

"Do not make light of what I am saying," Laure implored. "Be just to yourself, Evariste, and to me. I know that fine ladies would condemn me in this, but I know they would be hypocrites. Abandon the pursuit of that which can only desolate your life, and—come, Evariste, to me, who alone can"—Her speech was stifled by a rising sob. Opening her arms to him, devouring him with her passion lit eyes, her face aflame, she put aside restraint from her words, which came burning from her ravishing lips. "Oh, Evariste, I love you! I care not what you think of me for saying it. I love you. Do you hear, Evariste? I love you. My love is not what these people about us call love. My love is myself. Apart from it I am not; without it I cannot breathe or sleep or think—I do not exist. And you are my love, you are my life. Without you I cease to be. Would not you defy the world's opinion to save your life? I live but once, I love but once. Life and love, they are but one to me. Then I brave the world to save my love, my life."

Pausing for breath, she saw the frown which had settled upon his brow, and as scalding tears coursed down her cheeks she said in supplicating tone:

"No other woman can ever know you so perfectly as I do, Evariste. No one can smooth your path as I can. No one will ever understand how to stay and direct your impulses as I will. I can and will be your watchful guardian, your faithful slave. It is not your fortune I crave; it is only you. All interest in the estate I would renounce. I would sell this little place my grandmother left and maintain myself upon its proceeds. I care nothing for dress or luxury. It is only you I want. Oh, come to me, Evariste, and let me compel your love and happiness! Save me from myself and let me save you from yourself. Come to me in peace and wait not till you must fly to me for refuge from storm."

She was on her knees, and her upturned face shone with the light of devotional prayer.

It cost Evariste an effort to steel himself against the power of such a revelation of beauty and passion. But his answer was delivered coldly and harshly.

"There is at least one insurmountable obstacle to what you propose," he said.

"Name it, and I will overcome it," Laure exclaimed hopefully.

"You cannot." He gave a cruel emphasis to his words. "It is your position in Quillebert's household."

She sprang to her feet, every fiber of her being tingling with the sting of this thrust, and glared upon him with the fury of a wounded tigress.

"You know your words imply a mean lie," she cried. Checking her anger, covering her burning face for an instant and gulping back the bitter speech, she presented to him an offended countenance struggling for calmness and added:

"But go your way. I cannot renounce you and live. Thus far I have waited and suffered. I can endure a little more. It will not last very much longer, for, Evariste, come to me you will and in the flight of terror. I see it! I will wait!"

There was in her manner the positiveness of prescience which awed the man who had prided himself on impassibility, and he turned away perturbed and vexed. She re-entered the dark room and, flinging herself into the huge chair of her grandmother, sat staring into the future until the fury within her had spent itself. As if charged with the sturdiness of spirit which had borne the old doctress through many a trial, she resolutely exclaimed:

"He shall not, though it take his death and mine to prevent!"

Resuming the gown she had worn through the day, Laure composed her features and returned to Quillebert's dwelling, loathing it now as a charnel house, but choosing not yet to leave it.

CHAPTER XVII. THE VIRGIN WIDOW.

IT is the curse of many to desire most those things they have least courage to attempt. Innumerable Caesars are chained to plows by dread of unseen hordes of Gauls; endless rows of would be Rothschilds stand behind counters measuring tape, not daring to leap over into the fluctuating sea of values, and Mirabeaus sit mute at every country crossroads lest the world should hiss. A brave act, a bold venture, an earnest word might win the prize, but the arm hangs, the project lags, the lips are dumb in the presence of a possible negation. To such what might be ever holds more terrors than what is.

And thus the native hue of resolution is sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought, And enterprises of great pitch and moment, With this regard, their currents turn awry And lose the name of action.

Evariste Oakfield was thus affected. He had rushed into dissolute ways to profit

by the evil talents of his brother's foe. He had recklessly embarked in Quillebert's perilous and practical commerce to enrich himself. He had ruthlessly spurned the love of a lion hearted woman to be untrammelled in the pursuit of a shrinking maiden. Without compunction he had traded with a villain for the proofs of a guardian's infidelity to his trust in order to coerce the submission of the ward. Unflinchingly had he suppressed the true will of his brother and propounded a forgery to render defenseless her whom that brother had loved and sought to protect.

All these had he dared and done and had experienced no trepidation or sting of conscience. But that to which they had reference only, that to which they were designed as mere aids, appalled him. His mind by day and night reveled in imaginings of joyous life with Estelle his wedded wife. A hundred times he set forth determined to make his bliss assured and returned with void yearnings and nothing more. He dared not hear refusal from her pale lips. Could he brave that the course of cruel duress and compulsion he had prepared would be easy, swift and grateful to his temper. But his vanity shrank from her rejection. He sought to convince himself that she would not, could not, say the dreaded word, and yet he knew she had loved Horace and feared she would be loyal to that love. Though armed with the instrumentalities for forcing her consent, he was unable to expel the unquieting belief that the frail, gentle girl was in character such as Carlyle describes his wife, "In her bright career she had more sorrows than are common, but also a soft invincibility, a clearness of discernment, a noble loyalty of heart, which are rare."

Impatient, fretting, chafing at his timorousness, he nurtured his design upon Estelle—it was destitute of the tenderness and generous warmth of love—until it became a mania. Yet he lingered, held back, deferred the test of his fate, not noting the flight of time. The dirge of the Confederacy was sung at Appomattox, and still he halted.

But another spirit more masterful than his rebelled against this procrastination.

"Do you know the war is ended?" said Quillebert, appearing at "L'Esperance" for the first time during his residence in the parish.

"Yes," Evariste replied uninterest-edly. "Then the period has come when I must wind up my affairs here and go back to France, for a time at least, if not permanently." Quillebert continued. "Some of my Christian neighbors are zealous to have the United States authorities pry into my business. My absence will not facilitate them."

folds of smoke hung sullenly over the ruin, laying a pall upon the dead damnation, she said to him:

"I have seen writhing in that foul cloud the souls of men lost through the product of this vanished manufactory of Satan."

"As vision seeing an inheritance like 'sensing'?" Evariste asked sarcastically. "I believe it is. I see visions often."

"Is the one power as reliable as the other?"

"Yes, but the visions depress me. They are so real."

"Then why do you indulge them?"

"Because I cannot banish or resist them."

"No."

"Why not?"

"Because you will prevent."

"Not I," said Evariste positively.

"Yes, you," she insisted, with firmness.

"It is a true prophecy. I know nothing of Cassandra. Come with me, please. I wish to stop for a moment at the old cottage to get a book of my grandmother's which I left there."

"I will be delighted," he assented, with a condescending air which was not lost upon her. "Are you not fearful that those things will be stolen from the deserted cottage?"

"No. The thieves among us will not risk the vengeance of the doctress."

"But she is dead."

"They dread her curse the more because she is dead."

They rode through the swamp in silence. He affected to renege the dignity which he thought had been unwittingly lowered by the free converse in the crowd. She gave herself to a train of disturbing thoughts, which

DEMANDS ON TURKEY.

Delcasse Orders Note Delivered to Ottoman Minister of Foreign Affairs.

FLEET MAY ARRIVE TODAY.

Other Vessels Were Expected to Join Admiral Caillard's Command En Route — Probable Movements of Ships of Some Other Nations.

Paris, Nov. 4.—M. Delcasse, minister of foreign affairs, telegraphed M. Bapst, councillor of the French embassy in Constantinople, directing him—so the correspondent of the Associated Press is authoritatively informed—to present Sunday to Tewfik Pacha, Ottoman minister of foreign affairs, a note asking how the Turkish government proposes to pay the Loro claim and demanding the execution of the Sultan's irade dealing with that matter.

The note, it was expected, would also request satisfaction regarding the rights of France which are defined in the various capitulations and treaties, and which in some cases have not been respected and in others have been encroached upon by Turkey.

This declaration of what has been done bears out the statement cabled Saturday to the Associated Press regarding the intentions of the French government.

May Reach Destination Today.

Admiral Caillard is expected to reach his destination today. The foreign office had received no news from him since his division left the other divisions of the Mediterranean squadron, en route for Turkish waters, over four days ago.

It is pointed out that the absence of news is not surprising, as the instructions to Admiral Caillard were to steer due south and to avoid passing in sight of Bonifacio, Corsica, or traversing the Strait of Messina in order to prevent his movements being signalled. The vessels of the division carried only a normal supply of coal, but this would be much more than sufficient to enable them to steam 1,500 miles, the estimated distance they must cover before reaching their destination.

It is expected that Admiral Caillard will be joined en route by the torpedo cruiser Condor, which is stationed in Cretan waters, and may be met by the torpedo dispatch boat Vautour, which is stationed at Constantinople. It is also probable that the armored cruiser Admiral Charner, which arrived at Port Said Oct. 31 from the far east, is being held there in order to join Admiral Caillard if needed. It is further reported that three other warships are held in readiness at Toulon to reinforce him, should their presence be necessary.

Movement of Italian Fleet.

Dispatches from Rome asserted that the second division of the Italian Mediterranean squadron, which, as announced Saturday, left for Turkish waters with the supposed object of counterbalancing the French naval demonstration, will join the first division, which has been cruising in the Eastern Mediterranean for some time. It appears also that the Greek warships Psara, Hydra, Spetsai and Eurotas are now at Smyrna, where is also the Russian Mediterranean squadron. It is believed that the British squadron, now at Piraeus, Greece, will be ordered to proceed to Beirut, Syria.

BOER LOSSES 300 OR 400.

British Estimate—General Botha Personally Shared in the Fighting.

Pretoria, Nov. 4.—Further details have been received regarding the attack of the Boers under Commandant General Louis Botha, last week, upon Colonel Benson's column near Brakenloogte, Eastern Transvaal. It appears that General Botha, who had been joined by another big commando aggregating a thousand men, attacked Colonel Benson's rear guard, Oct. 30, on the march, and captured two guns, but was unable to retain them. Colonel Benson fell mortally wounded early in the fight.

Major Wools-Sampson took command, collected the convoy, and took up a position for defense about 500 yards from entrenchments prepared by the Boers. The captured guns were so situated that neither side could touch them.

The Boers made desperate efforts to overwhelm the whole British force, charging repeatedly right up to the British lines, and being driven back each time with heavy loss. The defense was stubbornly and successfully maintained through the whole of the following day and the succeeding night, until Colonel Barter, who had marched all night from Bushman's kop, brought relief in the morning of Nov. 1. The Boers then retired. Their losses are estimated at between 300 and 400.

Colonel Benson did not long survive. Not only did General Botha direct the attack, as already cabled, but he personally shared in the fighting.

CZOLGOSZ SANE,

DECLARE THE EXPERTS.

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Drs. Fowler, Oregon and Putnam, the specialists, who were requested by District Attorney Penney to examine into the mental condition of Leon F. Czolgosz, the assassin of the president, have made public their report, in which they state in part as the results of frequent examinations of Czolgosz, of the reports of his watchers and of his behavior in court, that they have concluded that he was sane at the time he planned the murder, when he shot the president, and when he was on trial.

WHEN ONE SHOULD MARRY, AND WHY

By COUNT LEO TOLSTOI

TO marry merely that one's life may be more full of pleasures will never prove a success. To make marriage, the union with the loved one, one's principal aim, supplanting all others, is a great mistake and an error one can easily see if he gives it a moment's thought. If before marriage our lives had no other aim, afterward, when we are together, it will be very difficult, almost impossible, to find one. In fact, if there is no common aim before marriage, afterward we shall agree in nothing and indeed, on the contrary, ALWAYS DISAGREE.

Marriage gives happiness only when there is a common aim. The man and the woman have met by the way and said, "Let us walk together." So be it. And they take each other's hands. But marriage will not give happiness when both thus drawn toward each other have turned away from their proper course.

True joy can only exist where man understands that his life is a service and has the well defined idea of a life aim outside himself and outside all personal happiness.

Your aim in life must not be the joy of life, but you must try to bring into the world the greatest amount of love and truth.

And marriage must help both of you to attain that end.

THE MOST SELFISH LIFE, THE MOST COWARDLY, IS THAT OF TWO PEOPLE WHO UNITE TO ENJOY TO THE UTMOST THEIR COMMON EXISTENCE, AND THE HIGHEST CALLING OF THOSE WHO LIVE TO SERVE GOD IS TO BRING GOOD INTO THE WORLD AND FOR THAT END TO UNITE THEMSELVES ONE TO THE OTHER.

Above all, think twenty, nay, a hundred, times before you marry. To tie up one's life to that of another person by a physical union is for a man of delicate morality the most important act he can do, the most fertile in consequences.

ONE MUST MARRY AS ONE DIES—ONLY WHEN ONE CANNOT DO OTHERWISE.

VALUE OF STOCKS.

The Market Price at a Given Date No Fair Criterion For Assessment.

The practice of assessing corporations with reference to the market value of their stock is open to serious objections. Corporate stock is always liable to violent fluctuations, and the market value on any day may be 50 per cent or more higher or lower than on another day, such value always being regulated by events which tend to increase or decrease the amount of dividends on the stock. There is, therefore, no stable or mean value of stock which can be taken as a true measure of normal value for the purpose of taxation.

In Adams Express Company v. Ohio, 165 U. S. Reports, 194, the Supreme Court of the United States held that the market value of the shares of stock in a corporation is the true value. But in this decision the court appears to have based its conclusion on the status of three strong and reliable express companies, the Adams, American, and United States, the stock of which is quite stable in value and not liable to very great fluctuations. But while shares in the old and well-established companies are quite stable in value, there may be hundreds which are subject to violent fluctuations, and have no normal or mean value for the purpose of equitable taxation. The stocks of many corporations are so variable that no fair valuation can be given them for any length of time.

Before the purchase of a controlling interest in the Lake Erie and Western railroad by the Vanderbilts the stock of the road was at a very low figure. But as soon as the road passed into the hands of a strong corporation its stock quickly rose to a high figure. It thus acquired a value that was purely speculative, or generated by the change of control of the road. But such value was not normal or stable, and might relapse to the former low figure should the road pass out of the Vanderbilt control.

POLITICAL COMMENT.

"LET WELL ENOUGH ALONE."

The Slogan of Senator Hanna For This Campaign.

Tom Johnson's Tax Issue and What It Means.

There Is Nothing In State Affairs Upon Which the Democrats Can Base a Campaign, and the Battle Must Be National.

Senator Hanna makes no claims as an orator, but his blunt, plain talks reach the spot. When he quoted the old-time adage, "Let well enough alone," in his Delaware speech, he did it simply to reinforce his argument that Democratic success in Ohio would mean a revival of the old tariff fight, and spread distrust and alarm throughout the industrial and commercial world. Such an outcome would be a blow to the prosperity of our people, and its first force would be spent on the workingmen and farmers. Why not let well enough alone? Why go astray on petty, petty, manufactured issues, brought up in the hope of securing Democratic success in Ohio?

There is nothing in state affairs upon which to base a campaign. The increase of state revenues by one-half within ten years, without increasing the tax rate, was the work of Republican legislatures. The state debt has thus been practically wiped out. State affairs have been well administered, and there is no scandal attached to the administration. Governor Nash has done his duty boldly and well, and the Democrats dare not attack his work.

Tom Johnson injected a plank into the Democratic platform which he proposes to use as an entering wedge for the single tax. That means that land, and land alone, shall be taxed, and all other kinds of property, money and stocks especially—shall be free of taxation. The issue he thus raises is valueless, and has no real bearing on politics; for even Democrats admit that should they elect the legislature, there is such a wide diversity of opinion upon taxation that no agreement could possibly be had upon the subject, and hence no law could be passed that would carry out Johnson's ideas.

"Let well enough alone." The state and the people are prosperous under Republican rule. Why invite the dangers that lie in entrusting power—state and national—to the Democratic party, which has always brought evil?

Man loves to be praised for his intuition, woman for her logic. As a rule neither possesses either.—Smart Set.

PROPOSED CODE FOR TREASON.

Public Demonstration Before the Philippine Commission Held at Manila.

Manila, Nov. 4.—There was a public demonstration before the Philippine commission Sunday of the draft of the act against treason and sedition. Many prominent Filipinos were present. Vice Governor Wright explained the object of the bill, saying "that the Spanish code was unsatisfactory." "There are a number of people living in the Philippines," remarked Mr. Wright, "who, so long as there is no punishment for treason, will take advantage of the fact to clog the wheels of the insular government. It must not be overlooked that turbulent spirits exist in the people are susceptible to inflammatory utterances and liable to be influenced by scheming demagogues."

"It would be inexcusable weakness on the part of the commission to allow the people to be aroused to deeds of violence who are now gradually drifting to the pursuits of peace."

"The recent renewed attempts at insurrection in the island of Samar and the province of Batangas (Luzon) and at a few other points, due to noisy Filipino agitators, have caused a feeling of unrest in the minds of both Filipinos and Americans, and the effect of their continuance would be to make impossible the very things these agitators claim they most desire. Such endeavors serve to recruit the ranks of the insurgents and to postpone the era of good feeling and fellowship, which must come."

"No excuse exists for secret political organizations. Their intent must be evil. No matter what may have been the opinions of the Filipinos regarding the sovereignty of the American government, the fact remains that Americans are here, and, moreover, here they intend to stay."

DEMANDS ON TURKEY.

Delcasse Orders Note Delivered to Ottoman Minister of Foreign Affairs.

FLEET MAY ARRIVE TODAY.

Other Vessels Were Expected to Join Admiral Caillard's Command En Route — Probable Movements of Ships of Some Other Nations.

Paris, Nov. 4.—M. Delcasse, minister of foreign affairs, telegraphed M. Bapst, councillor of the French embassy in Constantinople, directing him—so the correspondent of the Associated Press is authoritatively informed—to present Sunday to Tewfik Pasha, Ottoman minister of foreign affairs, a note asking how the Turkish government proposes to pay the Loroando claim and demanding the execution of the sultan's irade dealing with that matter.

The note, it was expected, would also request satisfaction regarding the rights of France which are defined in the various capitulations and treaties, and which in some cases have not been respected and in others have been encroached upon by Turkey.

This declaration of what has been done bears out the statement cabled Saturday to the Associated Press regarding the intentions of the French government.

May Reach Destination Today.

Admiral Caillard is expected to reach his destination today. The foreign office had received no news from him since his division left the other divisions of the Mediterranean squadron en route for Turkish waters, over four days ago.

It is pointed out that the absence of news is not surprising, as the instructions to Admiral Caillard were to steer due south and to avoid passing in sight of Bonifacio, Corsica, or traversing the Strait of Messina in order to prevent his movements being signalled. The vessels of the division carried only a normal supply of coal, but this would be much more than sufficient to enable them to steam 1,500 miles, the estimated distance they must cover before reaching their destination.

It is expected that Admiral Caillard will be joined en route by the torpedo cruiser Condor, which is stationed in Cretan waters, and may be met by the torpedo dispatch boat Vautour, which is stationed at Constantinople. It is also probable that the armored cruiser Admiral Charner, which arrived at Port Said Oct. 31 from the far east, is being held there in order to join Admiral Caillard if needed. It is further reported that three other warships are held in readiness at Toulon to reinforce him, should their presence be necessary.

Movement of Italian Fleet.

Dispatches from Rome asserted that the second division of the Italian Mediterranean squadron, which, as announced Saturday, left for Turkish waters with the supposed object of counterbalancing the French naval demonstration, will join the first division, which has been cruising in the Eastern Mediterranean for some time.

It appears also that the Greek warships Psara, Hydra, Spetsai and Eurotas are now at Smyrna, where is also the Russian Mediterranean squadron. It is believed that the British squadron, now at Piraeus, Greece, will be ordered to proceed to Beirut, Syria.

BOER LOSSES 300 OR 400.

British Estimate—General Botha Personally Shared in the Fighting.

Pretoria, Nov. 4.—Further details have been received regarding the attack of the Boers under Commandant General Louis Botha, last week, upon Colonel Benson's column near Brakenloogte, Eastern Transvaal. It appears that General Botha, who had been joined by another big commando aggregating a thousand men, attacked Colonel Benson's rear guard, Oct. 30, on the march, and captured two guns, but was unable to retain them. Colonel Benson fell mortally wounded early in the fight.

Major Wools-Sampson took command, collected the convoy, and took up a position for defense about 500 yards from entrenchments prepared by the Boers. The captured guns were so situated that neither side could touch them.

The Boers made desperate efforts to overwhelm the whole British force, charging repeatedly right up to the British lines, and being driven back each time with heavy loss. The defense was stubbornly and successfully maintained through the whole of the following day and the succeeding night, until Colonel Barter, who had marched all night from Bushman's kop, brought relief in the morning of Nov. 1. The Boers then retired. Their losses are estimated at between 300 and 400.

Colonel Benson did not long survive. Not only did General Botha direct the attack, as already cabled, but he personally shared in the fighting.

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Drs. Fowler, Oregon and Putnam, the specialists, who were requested by District Attorney Penney to examine into the mental condition of Leon F. Czolgosz, the assassin of the president, have made public their report, in which they state in part as the results of frequent examinations of Czolgosz, of his reports of his watchers and of his behavior in court, that they have "concluded that he was sane at the time he planned the murder, when he shot the president, and when he was on trial."

WHEN ONE SHOULD MARRY, AND WHY

By COUNT LEO TOLSTOI

TO marry merely that one's life may be more full of pleasures will never prove a success. To make marriage, the union with the loved one, one's principal aim, supplanting all others, is a great mistake and an error one can easily see if he gives it a moment's thought. If before marriage our lives had no other aim, afterward, when we are together, it will be very difficult, almost impossible, to find one. In fact, if there is no common aim before marriage, afterward we shall agree in nothing and indeed, on the contrary, ALWAYS DISAGREE.

Marriage gives happiness only when there is a common aim. The man and the woman have met by the way and said, "Let us walk together." So be it. And they take each other's hands. But marriage will not give happiness when both thus drawn toward each other have turned away from their proper course.

True joy can only exist where man understands that his life is a service and has the well defined idea of a life aim outside himself and outside all personal happiness.

Your aim in life must not be the joy of life, but you must try to bring into the world the greatest amount of love and truth.

And marriage must help both of you to attain that end.

THE MOST SELFISH LIFE, THE MOST COWARDLY, IS THAT OF TWO PEOPLE WHO UNITE TO ENJOY TO THE UTMOST THEIR COMMON EXISTENCE, AND THE HIGHEST CALLING OF THOSE WHO LIVE TO SERVE GOD IS TO BRING GOOD INTO THE WORLD AND FOR THAT END TO UNITE THEMSELVES ONE TO THE OTHER.

Above all, think twenty, nay, a hundred, times before you marry. To tie up one's life to that of another person by a physical union is for a man of delicate morality the most important act he can do, the most fertile in consequences.

ONE MUST MARRY AS ONE DIES—ONLY WHEN ONE CANNOT DO OTHERWISE.

The Market Price at a Given Date No Fair Criterion For Assessment.

The practice of assessing corporations with reference to the market value of their stock is open to serious objections. Corporate stock is always liable to violent fluctuations, and the market value on any day may be 50 per cent or more higher or lower than on another day, such value always being regulated by events which tend to increase or decrease the amount of dividends on the stock. There is, therefore, no stable or mean value of stock which can be taken as a true measure of normal value for the purpose of taxation.

In Adams Express Company v. Ohio, 165 U. S. Reports, 194, the Supreme Court of the United States held that the market value of the shares of stock in a corporation is the true value. But in this decision the court appears to have based its conclusion on the status of three strong and reliable express companies, the Adams, American, and United States, the stock of which is quite stable in value and not liable to very great fluctuations. But while shares in the old and well-established companies are quite stable in value, there may be hundreds which are subject to violent fluctuations, and have no normal or mean value for the purpose of equitable taxation. The stocks of many corporations are so variable that no fair valuation can be given them for any length of time.

Before the purchase of a controlling interest in the Lake Erie and Western railroad by the Vanderbilts the stock of the road was at a very low figure. But as soon as the road passed into the hands of a strong corporation its stock quickly rose to a high figure. It thus acquired a value that was purely speculative, or generated by the change of control of the road. But such value was not normal or stable, and might relapse to the former low figure should the road pass out of the Vanderbilt control.

POLITICAL COMMENT.

That Senator Marcus A. Hanna stood so near to President McKinley establishes him more firmly in the hearts and minds of the masses of the people.—Springfield Press-Republic.

Governor Nash is a man of strong convictions with the courage as well as the ability to put them into actual practice. The state of Ohio never had a better chief executive.—Canton Repository.

The attempt of the Democratic machine to line up the old soldiers against Governor Nash is not meeting with much success. Why should it? What did the Democratic party ever do for the veterans of the Civil war?—Defiance Express.

The Republican party is pledged to give the people relief from high taxes and to prevent the placing of the entire burden of taxation upon farms and homes.—Cleveland Leader.

Senator Foraker should be returned to the senate, where he has done good service for his state and the country.—Cleveland Leader.

Bryan is willing to come into Ohio to make speeches, but the gold Democratic managers refuse to invite him. What do the Democratic free silverites think now?—Toledo Blade.

Mr. Hanna's announcement that he will remain in politics will not make the Democrats feel good.—Marion Star.

"LET WELL ENOUGH ALONE."

There Is Nothing In State Affairs Upon Which the Democrats Can Base a Campaign, and the Battle Must Be National.

Senator Hanna makes no claims as an orator, but his blunt, plain talks reach the spot. When he quoted the old-time adage, "Let well enough alone," in his Delaware speech, he did it simply to reinforce his argument that Democratic success in Ohio would mean a revival of the old tariff fight, and spread distrust and alarm throughout the industrial and commercial world. Such an outcome would be a blow to the prosperity of our people, and its first force would be spent on the workingmen and farmers. Why not let well enough alone? Why go astray on petty, petty, manufactured issues, brought up in the hope of securing Democratic success in Ohio?

There is nothing in state affairs upon which to base a campaign. The increase of state revenues by one-half within ten years, without increasing the tax rate, was the work of Republican legislatures. The state debt has thus been practically wiped out. State affairs have been well administered, and there is no scandal attached to the administration. Governor Nash has done his duty boldly and well, and the Democrats dare not attack his work.

Tom Johnson injected a plank into the Democratic platform which he proposes to use as an entering wedge for the single tax fad. That means that land, and land alone, shall be taxed, and all other kinds of property, money and stocks especially—shall be free of taxation. The issue he thus raises is valueless, and has no real bearing on politics; for even Democrats admit that should they elect the legislature, there is such a wide diversity of opinion upon taxation that no agreement could possibly be had upon the subject, and hence no law could be passed that would carry out Johnson's ideas.

"Let well enough alone!" The state and the people are prosperous under Republican rule. Why invite the dangers that lie in entrusting power—state and national—to the Democratic party, which has always brought evil?

Man loves to be praised for his intension, woman for her logic. As a rule neither possesses either.—Smart Set.

Public Demonstration Before the Philippine Commission Held at Manila.

Manila, Nov. 4.—There was a public demonstration before the Philippine commission Sunday of the draft of the act against treason and sedition. Many prominent Filipinos were present. Vice Governor Wright explained the object of the bill, saying "that the Spanish code was unsatisfactory." "There are a number of people living in the Philippines," remarked Mr. Wright, "who, so long as there is no punishment for treason, will take advantage of the fact to clog the wheels of the insular government. It must not be overlooked that turbulent spirits exist in the pacified provinces. The masses of the people are susceptible to inflammatory utterances and liable to be influenced by scheming demagogues. It would be inexcusable weakness on the part of the commission to allow the people to be aroused to deeds of violence who are now gradually drifting to the pursuits of peace."

"The recent renewed attempts at insurrection in the island of Samar and the province of Batangas (Luzon) and at a few other points, due to noisy Filipino agitators, have caused a feeling of unrest in the minds of both Filipinos and Americans, and the effect of their continuance would be to make impossible the very things these agitators claim they most desire. Such endeavors serve to recruit the ranks of the insurgents and to postpone the era of good feeling and fellowship, which must come."

"No excuse exists for secret political organizations. Their intent must be evil. No matter what may have been the opinions of the Filipinos regarding the sovereignty of the American government, the fact remains that Americans are here; and, moreover, here they intend to stay."

Brief Notes of a Personal Nature And of Matters About Town.

After Big Game—A party of hunters from Cleveland arrived here Saturday night on their way to the wilds of West Virginia, where they expect to capture big game.

Again on Duty—E. J. Middaugh, employed as lineman by the East Liverpool railway company, who has been off duty for several days on account of a carbuncle on his right hand, resumed his duties this morning.

To Run Another Week—The members of the Young Woman's Missionary society, who have been conducting the rummage sale on Sixth street, have turned over the work to the senior society and the sale, which has been most successful, will be continued throughout the week.

Used Her Umbrella—A young lady, employed in a local pottery, plied an umbrella which she carried Sunday night on a "masher" who attempted to take hold of her arm. The incident took place at the corner of Market and Fifth streets and was witnessed by a large crowd of young people, who gave the vanquished sport the laugh.

A DEMOCRATIC PLOT

EVIDENCE OF IT IN THE OPPOSITION TO NORAGON.

An Old Scheme of Misrepresentation That Will Not Deceive Republicans.

It is beginning to be quite well understood that the movement so industriously begun a few weeks ago against the re-election of Sheriff Noragon had its origin in Democratic councils. Until within a few days ago the Democratic hand was thoroughly well covered, and organized labor was placed in the front of the fight. Through misrepresentation on the part of the Democratic mayor, it was made to appear that Sheriff Noragon had no authority to take his deputies to the scene of the late strike at Wellsville.

This alleged action of the sheriff is the basis of the hostility sought to be made effective by the friends of labor. Sheriff Noragon has repeatedly insisted that the mayor called him to Wellsville and that he went there only in the exercise of his sworn duty.

Mayor Dennis, though urgently called upon to do so, has refused to affirm or deny this statement in the public press. It is easy, therefore, to see in the unwonted activity of the Democratic leaders a plot to delude Republican workmen into the belief that Sheriff Noragon was their enemy during the late strike, but like all Democratic schemes it will fail of fruition. The intelligent Republican voters of Columbiana county are not easily fooled by Democratic schemes so palpably apparent.

THE ELECTION'S IMPORTANCE.

The Republicans of the state can not fail to realize the importance of the election on Nov. 5. In one sense this is an "off year," but nobody should feel like remaining away from the polls on that account. Much of vital importance to the Republican party is involved in this election. Not only the control of the state government is at stake, but the legislature chosen this fall will elect a United States senator to succeed Senator Foraker. Furthermore, the general assembly will redistrict the state for congressional purposes.

NO DEPUTIES APPOINTED

Appeals to All Fair Minded Men to Uphold Him, As He Did Only His Duty—Terse Statement of Facts in an Affidavit.

In view of certain attacks which have been made upon me throughout the county, charging me with improper conduct as an officer at Wellsville during the recent strike of Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, in that I am unfriendly to organized labor and that I appointed deputy sheriffs at Wellsville during the time said strike was in progress, and that my general attitude at that time was and is unfriendly to the strikers, I desire to say:

It was my privilege and my pleasure to be affiliated for years with one of the prominent labor organizations of the country. I am and always have been in favor of organized labor, willing at all times to lend my influence in its behalf in its efforts for justice and right. I hereby reaffirm without fear of successful contradiction that I did not appoint a single deputy or other officer to serve in any manner at Wellsville during the strike there. I was called there by the mayor of Wellsville and in accord with my sworn duty, I went to Wellsville; but contrary to the fears of the officials of that city, I am pleased to say no violence was resorted to by those engaged in the strike and no action in my official capacity was necessary and none was taken.

I appeal, therefore, to all fair minded members of labor organizations and citizens in general to uphold and support me in the faithful discharge of my official duty as sheriff of Columbiana county, believing that it is not the purpose or intent of honest labor to unjustly or unfairly condemn any man or permit their organizations to be made the tool of designing politicians.

If re-elected to the office of sheriff of Columbiana county I pledge myself to so discharge the duties of the office to earn the respect and confidence of all law-abiding citizens generally. Very respectfully,
S. D. NORAGON.

Before me, the undersigned, a notary public in Columbiana county, state of Ohio, personally came Samuel D. Noragon, sheriff of Columbiana county, who, being duly sworn, deposes and says that, in answer to a circular printed and circulated in Salem, O., Nov. 2, 1901, accusing him of being unfriendly to organized labor and reiterating sundry charges heretofore made against him, and said circulars being signed by A. N. Hodge and others, that he (Noragon) did have a conversation with Republicans and union workmen in Salem, and that said Samuel D. Noragon then and there said that he acted only in good faith in the performance of his sworn duty during the strike at Wellsville and denied each and every other allegation made against him. He did ask for a committee of Salem union workmen to investigate his attitude in relation to said strike and cited the members of the same to Peter Ebaugh, captain of pickets, and Harry Culp, president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers at Wellsville. Deponent says the above-named officers of the Amalgamated Association stated to him in presence of Daniel F. Steiner, W. C. Connor and others at Wellsville, that they saw nothing in his official conduct at Wellsville during said strike and could conceive of no reason why he should be blamed by any one for his actions.

Pat O'Connors, named in said circular as having been cited to by said Samuel D. Noragon, as one who could give information, was not mentioned at said conference.

Deponent further says that the committee which came from Wellsville to Salem did not notify him that there would be a meeting, and did not invite him to be present until 6 p. m. on the day of said meeting, at which time it was impossible for him to attend, owing to other engagements, said committee well knowing these facts.

S. D. NORAGON.

WALSH'S STAND ON TAXATION

Defines His Position Against Present Method of Making Assessments.

OPPOSES DISCRIMINATION

Promises to Support a Reform Measure If He Is Sent to the Legislature. Wants to Represent the People, Regardless of Party.

J. C. Walsh, the East Liverpool candidate for the legislature from this district, has been asked on several occasions as to his attitude in regard to the present method of tax assessments. He has always explained his position clearly to the inquirers and today gave it out for publication.

"I believe that there should be no discrimination between corporations and the individual in the matter of taxation," said Mr. Walsh. "A corporation has not more right to favors at the hands of the assessors than has the workingman who is doing his best to secure for himself a home, and it will be my endeavor to see to it that the latter receive an equal chance with the powerful corporations which appear to have the sympathy of the officials who have charge of this assessment."

"I do not think the method employed along those lines is the best that can be had, and will support, if I am sent to the legislature to represent this district, a reform in that direction which will do away with this unjust discrimination."

"I am not conducting my campaign on party lines. While I am the candidate on the Democratic ticket I expect to represent the people at large and given every one, regardless of party affiliations, an equal share in anything that I may be able to accomplish for the benefit of not only this, but every other district in the state." 120-h

RESOLUTIONS

Adopted By Division 52, of the Street Railway Employees.

The following resolutions bearing on the conduct of Sheriff Noragon during the strike of the steel workers at Wellsville will be read with interest by the others.

Whereas, We, the said members of Division No. 52, A. A. of S. R. E. of A., denounce the actions of Sheriff Noragon of Columbiana county, Ohio, by appointing non-union men as deputies, and otherwise assisting the trust officials, do refuse to support him in his re-election for sheriff of said county, therefore be it

Resolved, That we, as members of Division No. 52, do hereby endorse C. P. Leonard for sheriff of Columbiana county, and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the records of this organization, a copy printed in the local papers and a copy forwarded to the brother locals in Columbiana county.

We kindly solicit your vote for C. P. Leonard.

HOME AFFAIRS.

Brief Notes of a Personal Nature And of Matters About Town.

After Big Game—A party of hunters from Cleveland arrived here Saturday night on their way to the wilds of West Virginia, where they expect to capture big game.

Again on Duty—E. J. Middaugh, employed as fireman by the East Liverpool railway company, who has been off duty for several days on account of a carbuncle on his right hand, resumed his duties this morning.

To Run Another Week—The members of the Young Woman's Missionary society, who have been conducting the rummage sale on Sixth street, have turned over the work to the senior society and the sale, which has been most successful, will be continued throughout the week.

Used Her Umbrella—A young lady, employed in a local pottery, piled an umbrella which she carried Sunday night on a smart "masher" who attempted to take hold of her arm. The incident took place at the corner of Market and Fifth streets and was witnessed by a large crowd of young people, who gave the vanquished sport the laugh.

A DEMOCRATIC PLOT

An Old Scheme of Misrepresentation That Will Not Deceive Republicans.

It is beginning to be quite well understood that the movement so industriously begun a few weeks ago against the re-election of Sheriff Noragon had its origin in Democratic councils. Until within a few days ago the Democratic hand was thoroughly well covered, and organized labor was placed in the front of the fight. Through misrepresentation on the part of the Democratic mayor, it was made to appear that Sheriff Noragon had no authority to take his deputies to the scene of the late strike at Wellsville.

This alleged action of the sheriff is the basis of the hostility sought to be made effective by the friends of labor. Sheriff Noragon has repeatedly insisted that the mayor called him to Wellsville and that he went there only in the exercise of his sworn duty.

Mayor Dennis, though urgently called upon to do so, has refused to affirm or deny this statement in the public press.

It is easy, therefore, to see in the unwonted activity of the Democratic leaders a plot to delude Republican workmen into the belief that Sheriff Noragon was their enemy during the late strike, but like all Democratic schemes it will fail of fruition. The intelligent Republican voters of Columbiana county are not easily fooled by Democratic schemes so palpably apparent.

Nice neckwear at 118-1 THE SURPRISE CLOTHING HOUSE.

THE ELECTION'S IMPORTANCE.

The Republicans of the state can not fail to realize the importance of the election on Nov. 5. In one sense this is an "off year," but nobody should feel like remaining away from the polls on that account. Much of vital importance to the Republican party is involved in this election. Not only the control of the state government is at stake, but the legislature chosen this fall will elect a United States senator to succeed Senator Foraker. Furthermore, the general assembly will redistrict the state for congressional purposes.

Sheriff Noragon Resents the Charge of Being Unfriendly to Union Men.

Appeals to All Fair Minded Men to Uphold Him, As He Did Only His Duty—Terse Statement of Facts in an Affidavit.

In view of certain attacks which have been made upon me throughout the county, charging me with improper conduct as an officer at Wellsville during the recent strike of Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, in that I am unfriendly to organized labor and that I appointed deputy sheriffs at Wellsville during the time said strike was in progress, and that my general attitude at that time was and is unfriendly to the strikers, I desire to say:

It was my privilege and my pleasure to be affiliated for years with one of the prominent labor organizations of the country. I am and always have been in favor of organized labor, willing at all times to lend my influence in its behalf in its efforts for justice and right. I hereby reaffirm without fear of successful contradiction that I did not appoint a single deputy or other officer to serve in any manner at Wellsville during the strike there. I was called there by the mayor of Wellsville and in accord with my sworn duty, I went to Wellsville; but contrary to the fears of the officials of that city, I am pleased to say no violence was resorted to by those engaged in the strike and no action in my official capacity was necessary and none was taken.
